CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Announcement is made by the Military Training Camps association that the following prizes will be awarded to the students of the 1924 Citizens' Military Training camp, to be held at Camp Devens, August 1st to 31st. Six bronze medals are to be given by the Civilian Aides of the six New England states, and a gold medal by Mr. Pierpont L. Stankpole of Boston, Civilian Aide, First Corps Area. One of these medals will be awarded to the student from each state holding the highest record for general excellence throughout the camp. The gold medal will be awarded to the student holding the highest record among the six state medal winners. Only the students of the basic course are eligible for these medals.

Bronze medals will be given by the Military Training Camps association as heretofore, one medal for the students of the basic and real courses holding the highest record for general excellence in each company; one in each battalion to the students of the white course, and one for the student in the blue course holding the highest record among the blue students.

Silver cups will also be given by the Military Training Camps association for the companies, batteries, troops, engineering and signal corps for general excellence.

Splendid Picture Offerings at The Rialto

"GENTLE JULIA"—WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

The large body of readers who have enjoyed Booth Tarkington's delightful story, "Gentle Julia," will all vote it perfect in character drawing and in the penetrating humor with which its incidents are developed. But there is one question that may be pretty generally asked: Does the screen version follow closely the plot of the original? The answer to this is: Yes, except that enough dramatic situations have been added to give the story true play construction and the incidents of the novel have received the necessary "highlighting" demanded by all properly made motion pictures. The most radical departure from the novel is the ending. Mr. Tarkington's way of arranging the story was characteristically whimsical, but the screen finish will be found to be to the taste of the average motion picture patron. The title role is played by Bessie Love. She portrays the part of a small town belle who has won every youth of her acquaintance. Too soft-hearted to turn them down with brutal frankness, she is more cruel, unconsciously, in being kind to each and every one. Then along comes a breezy man from Chicago and Julia herself in love. But she discovers, much to her sorrow, that he is a married man. Interested only in a business deal with her father. Her old sweetheart, Noble Hill, played by Harold Goodwin, has given up hope and is just about to leave town for adventures in the unknown when she comes home. After that of course, Julia awakens to facts and takes Noble for what he is—her real lover.

The added feature which also opens today is "The Rip Tide," a strong mystery drama with a big all star cast that includes Stuart Holmes, Rosemary Theby, J. Frank Glendon, Dick Sutherland and Russell Simpson. It deals with a deep subject and with Stuart Holmes in the leading character role. It is sure to be a picture that is worth while seeing.

And don't forget that the somewhat rotund Sam Cohen will bring down his riotous amateurs on Tuesday night. Sam himself is present and acts as official announcer. He's a riot all by himself. Ask anyone who has seen him. If the amateurs aren't funny enough for you—Sam is—so you can't go wrong. The prices remain the same on amateur night.

Norma Talmadge at Strand Theatre

FEATURE AT STRAND NOW PLAYING

When the name of Norma Talmadge is mentioned, one immediately associates it with something unusual and interesting in the motion picture life. When the Strand management recently announced the coming of one of Miss Talmadge's newest First National pictureizations, there was unanimous approval and unqualified assurance on all sides that something exceptional and entertaining was in store for them. "The Song of Love," with Miss Talmadge in the role of an Arabian dancing girl, assisted by Joseph Schildkraut, one of Broadway's most recent matinee idols, made of "The Song of Love" a picture story and production that ranks with the very best of its kind filmed. You will love and admire Norma's artistry of a new brand in this offering. Don't miss it.

Then there is Laura La Plante in "Excitement," a picture story that is just what the title indicates. You get thrills aplenty, but also a delightful love romance and some good humor. Miss La Plante is assisted by excellent cast. In addition to the above features of genuine merit, there will be a comedy and weekly issue that gives one a glimpse of events of the recent past. The musical numbers matinee idols, made of "The Song of Love" a picture story and production that ranks with the very best of its kind filmed. You will love and admire Norma's artistry of a new brand in this offering. Don't miss it.

AT THE B. F. KEITH THEATRE ALL THIS WEEK

The present week at the B. F. Keith theatre is N. V. A. week—the week devoted to the National Vaudeville Association. And with this idea in view the acts have been specially chosen. It is doubtful if one of the turns which will be presented has ever been seen here before. There are the Four Rubini sisters—musicians of high grade—who have been specially coached by their brother, Jan Rubini, a noted violinist. The Rubinis play the piano, violin, flute and cello. Then there are King and Irwin in "Good Town Divorces," which is hailed as a colored classic. Others on this splendid bill are Miss Teria, a foreign act which will puzzle the most thoughtful of spectators; Ed. Lowry, the diminutive comedian who will give his own concoction, "Still Smiling"; Larry Meehan and Gertrude Newman in singing, dancing and a talk feat, and George Downey and Gertrude Claridge in singing, dancing, cycle-riding and roller-skating. The week's picture feature is "Innocence," presented by Anna Q. Nilsson and a great cast.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate and general insurance reports the following sales negotiated through this office during the past week:

In the Belvidere section sale has been effected of one of the highest-grade apartment properties in this entire portion of Lowell. The house is of the semi-detached type and is situated at 61-65 Clitheroe street, near its junction with NeSmith street. Each division of the property has nine rooms, equipped with the most modern of appointments throughout. The land conveyed totals 8659 square feet, and carries an assessment at the rate of 26 cents per foot. The transfer is negotiated on behalf of Harvey B. Greene, Prop., of the Highlands conservatories.

Final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of a residential parcel at 633 Broadway. The house is of two story type, and contains seven rooms. The land involved totals 3438 square feet, carrying an assessment at the rate of 25 cents per foot. This parcel is sold on behalf of Timothy H. Reardon, who has held it for many years past for investment purposes. The grantees are James F. and Daniel J. Cunningham.

Also the sale of modern property at 631 Concord street. The house is of semi-bungalow design, with eight rooms and bath. It is of comparatively recent construction, and modern to the last detail. Conveyance is made on behalf of the resident owner, Henry Giddie, the grantee being Charles E. Greene who buys for personal use of investment.

In the Middlesex Village section conveyance has been effected of the large residence at 1782 Middlesex street, directly at its junction with Wood street. The house is of square colonial type with nine rooms and bath, and is surrounded by attractive grounds. The sale is negotiated on behalf of the resident owner, Grace M. McKinnon, the purchaser being Dorcas G. Marshall, who buys for investment purposes.

Sales by E. F. Slattery, Jr.
Edward F. Slattery, Jr., real estate and insurance, reports the following sales made through his office during the past week:

The sale of the property situated at 54 Manchester street. This property consists of a cottage house of seven rooms, together with barn and carriage sheds. About 12,000 square feet of land accompanies the house. The sale was made in behalf of Patrick Farrell and the purchasers are John J. Hayden and Mary Hayden, who buy for a home.

Also the sale of the splendid two-story house and garage situated at 104-106 Stevens street, Highlands. Each apartment contains six rooms and

TRIAL OF GOV. McCRAE OPENS TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 21.—Trial of Gov. Warren T. McCray on the charge of using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud was started before Judge A. B. Anderson, in United States district court today. Fifty laymen, reported from which to select a jury. Approximately 175 witnesses, mostly bankers, have been subpoenaed by the government.

The indictment against the government contains 13 counts and charges that he intended to defraud approximately 170 banks in Indiana and elsewhere by sending through the mails, worthless cattle paper for discount and as collateral for loans and by mailing false financial statements in order to obtain loans.

A second federal indictment charging violation of the national banking laws is pending against the governor, but no trial date has been set.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, many soaps and shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is mild coconut oil shampoo. You can keep your hair soft and healthy by using it.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse your hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily removing every particle of dust, dirt, no matter how greasy. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store; it is inexpensive and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Adv.

TROUBLE ENDED WHEN "TROUBLE" CAME

The four-legged hero of the south today is, strangely enough, named "Trouble." The faithful 3-year-old collie saved the lives of Virginia Hastings (shown with him in the picture) and Harvey Alexander, aged 4, when the two children were attacked by vicious hogs on the Hastings farm near Jonesboro, Ga. The swine had chewed an ear from the Alexander child and were menacing the little girl when the dog hero arrived and drove them off.

Right After a Severe Illness

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets Help You Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight—Great

Nothing like the vitamins in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting stomach up-setting oil itself, so nowadays, up-to-date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely does the work.

Ask Liggett's, Green's Drug Store, A. W. Dows, Fred Howard, or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. They are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skanky men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds or over in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on five pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite—30 tablets, 60 cents.

MOM'N POP

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"DO HURRY," THE FROG KEPT SAYING.

Nancy and Nick started back to Doofunny Land, taking the green frog with them.

"Do hurry," the frog kept saying, looking back nervously toward the pond to see if the brown mink was following. "Do you think the fairy will be gone?"

"I think not," said Nancy. "She would wait to see how you liked yourself."

"Well, I don't like myself a bit and I want her to change me back the way I used to be. I wasn't afraid of anything then except the wooden waddle duck."

When they arrived, there were Master Fuzz Wuzz and Silver Wings and everybody waiting anxiously to see what had happened.

"Well, did you like it?" asked Silver Wings when she spied the little green fellow in Nick's hand.

"No, I didn't," said the frog. "An enormous beast was at the end of all that. It was usually the end of all real frogs. I'd rather be made of cotton and paper and last a while longer."

"That's the way with me," squeaked the little tin mouse. "In Doofunny Land I have only the patent-leather cat and the stocking kitten to fear, and neither of them are very fast runners."

"And you know how much chance bunnies have!" declared the cotton rabbit, flapping his long, limber ears. "The only thing is," quacked the duck, "we all miss the children. What will we do when the Twins go home?"

Suddenly the little fairy had an idea. "I know what I'll do!" she cried. "What do you say if I fix each of you up like new, and then take you to the houses of children who haven't many toys?"

Instantly there were so many voices all yelling at once that the fairy had put her hands over her ears.

"All right!" she laughed. "But remember you won't stay new long. You'll lose ears and tails and get dingy and lose your paint and be left out in the rain and everything. It's always that way when kiddies play with toys."

"We don't care. We don't care," sang the Doofunny leaders. "Please do hurry," croaked the little frog. "You haven't changed me back yet and the mink may come any minute."

"I'll begin on you," said Silver Wings, waving her wand. Instantly the little shivering frog changed back into a puffy, rotten frog with tissue-paper skin. He looked very happy.

Then one by one she changed all the boys and made them like new, except the tin-Outs. They were so old-fashioned they needed a new set of clothes altogether.

The Twins helped Silver Wings to take the toys to their new homes. As for Master Fuzz Wuzz, the pipe-cleaner man, he wanted to go back to his old home and live with his master, who made him.

Nancy and Nick said goodbye to Silver Wings, but as she flew away she called, "I think the Fairy Queen has a new adventure for you."

Ladies! This Beats Cosmetics

GOOD health cannot be camouflaged by powder and rouge. The eyes will tell. That sparkle and clearness that denote good health will not be there if you are constipated.

Mrs. Clara Proctor of Pittersville, Mich., had been told by doctors she had this and that disease, and one advised an operation, but she knew she had been constipated all her life so first tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

She avoided the operation and now feels better than she ever did. Likewise Mrs. William Appleton of Edgington, Pa., who was badly constipated and now looks her best again after using Syrup Pepsin.

Use it regularly a day before and a day after the periods. The gentle emptying of the bowels will give you relief, and lessen headaches and congestion. Take a spoonful at bed-time and see how much better you feel in the morning. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics, and entirely safe not only for you but for the youngest child. Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the home for you or some other member of the family may need it any moment to relieve constipation, to break up fevers and colds, to clear up biliousness, indigestion, a pimple, a fever sore and other disturbances that show constipation.

Safe Family Laxative

Intelligent women are realizing that health and more outward complexion are two different things, and more and more are taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Over 10 million bottles were bought in drug stores last year, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world! Go to your druggist and buy a bottle. The cost is less than a cent a dose. You will see how much more effective a spoonful of Syrup

(By N.E.A. Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—By quick, decisive action, the U. S. department of agriculture has taken in hand a recurrence of the foot-and-mouth disease which had not been threatening the livestock of this country since its devastating appearance in 1914.

This year the dread visitor was practically expected.

And, being expected, it had scarcely shown its symptoms here when government authorities were upon it. As a result, the disease that has caused the loss of thousands of head of cattle and other livestock in previous years, is now practically under complete control, infected animals are quarantined and rigid guard is kept against exportation of any stock from the confined areas.

California is the only state in which this disease has succeeded in gaining headway, although reports of its symptoms have come from nearby states and close inspection of livestock is being made elsewhere. But less than three weeks after the outbreak was first reported in the region of Oakland, Calif., government veterinary inspectors had all known infected herds under ground.

Well Guarded

Despite this optimistic report, however, shipments of other livestock were made to Los Angeles and

ARE CROWS BLACK AS THEY ARE PAINTED?

We have always contended that crows were black in color and black in character. Volumes have been written about the depredations of this bird. Every farmer hates him. Every sportsman should, and we believe that most of them do.

Now comes the United States department of agriculture with a new release headed "Crows Not So Black As They Are Painted." This article defends the crow and makes the claim that a careful study of the economic status of this bird demonstrates that over much of his range he does as much good as harm.

We do not know a single argument in favor of the crow; therefore we must plead ignorance. For all we know, the crow may eat such quantities of noxious insects that he is easily worth more to the farmer than the many smaller insect-eating birds which he destroys. We would hate, however, to argue in his favor with some farmer who had just finished replanting a field of corn which had been pulled by crows.

Among sportsmen the crow is classed as vermin. We do know a great deal about his activities as such and pronounce him the worst egg thief and murderer of fledglings with which our wild bird life has to contend. We have watched crows beating back and forth across prairies, systematically hunting out the nests of every prairie chicken and wild duck and working themselves on the eggs until their bills and heads were yellow from the yolks.

In the spring of the year, when song and insectivorous birds are nesting, you do not hear the cawing of crows so common at other seasons. If you look carefully you will see, instead, this black thief slipping from orchard tree to orchard tree. Quietly, without a sound, he searches each and robs every nest of its contents. In defense of his egg-eating propensities the following paragraph is quoted from the release mentioned above.

"The number of eggs of other birds reported to have been found under crow nests also has been emphasized. Under a right interpretation, this evidence will have a less serious meaning, so far as other bird life is concerned. Scientists state that breeding birds readily replenish losses due to egg destruction, and under the conditions described the production of two or more sets of eggs before a brood is brought forth is doubtless the regular occurrence."

We leave the evidence with a jury of our peers. Should splendid birds like our pitman and sharp-tailed crows will stop with the first clutch? grouse and our wild waterfowl, be compelled to lay a second clutch of eggs in order that the crow may be well fed? Is there any guarantee the

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating the into natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, stimulating, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without harming, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. E. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowels and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 20c.

Plenty of Sleeping Room in Small Bungalow

Heavily of line and careful attention to detail have made this bungalow one of the most attractive of its type. The broad French windows, opening on the inviting terrace, give the front of this home an appearance of which the owner is bound to be proud.

Careful architectural thought has been devoted to the designing of the porch columns, the window frames and other details of the outside trim. The generous number of porches and the prominence of the fireplace in the living room suggest that this is the house referred to by those who declare that the home they build will have these features as the first consideration.

The interior of the home reveals an abundance of room which hardly would be expected from a structure of this size. The three bedrooms, the living room, dining room and kitchen, there are a sleeping porch and a sun porch, both of such size and substantial construction.

The reception hall provides a closet for wraps and also allows one entering the front of the house to reach the bedroom group without passing through the living room or the dining room. The living room suggests an intimate, livable abode from the provision made for the care of books and the wide opening on the sun porch.

The dining room, with its cross ventilation and abundance of light, its built-in china closet and convenient means of communication with the kitchen, should be a place of cheerful meals. The kitchen is efficiently arranged with its own entrance porch. The designer of this home has deemed and the comfort to the occupants. All of the three rooms open on the sleeping porch and all are provided with closets.

The approximate cost of this home is $56,000, although no figure can be given which will take into account the materials used in its construction, the distance of the location of the home from the source of these materials, the labor market and the many other factors which vary widely in different sections.

EXCELLENT CONCERT AT THE AUDITORIUM

Miss Sophie Braslau of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Mr. Allen McQuibban, Irish-American tenor, rendered the most pleasing, diversified concert at the Memorial Auditorium last evening, under the auspices of the Lowell Notre Dame Alumnae association.

Mr. McQuibban was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his opening number, "Where'er You Walk," by Handel. His charming tenor voice was displayed to advantage in the interpretation of Handel's "Ombra mai fu," from Xerxes.

Miss Braslau opened her recital with "Che Faro senza Badilino," by Gluck. Her ability as a soprano was cleverly portrayed in her rendition of Donizetti's "Brindisi," a charming selection with more difficult passages.

Miss Braslau's interpretation of numerous Russian airs, was most appealing, her selection, "On the Dnieper," by Moussorgsky receiving warm applause from the audience.

Mr. McQuibban, in his rendition of the better known Irish songs, including "A Ballynure Ballad," "Norah O'Neill," and "Molly Brannigan," was pronounced applause.

As an encore, Miss Braslau gave the ever popular, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," while at another time she rendered "God Bless You My Dear," the latter number bringing rounds of sincere applause.

Mr. McQuibban was also most generous in his encores, and he interpreted numerous Irish songs, which were much appreciated by the audience.

NOT ONE IN HUNDRED KEPT INSURANCE

There are 200,000 veterans in Massachusetts, and only 1880 veterans during the period of January 1, 1923 to April 1, 1924 have converted and reinstated $8,599,300.00 worth of government insurance.

Each veteran should take advantage of the low-priced insurance allowed by the government. Consider the following summarized facts presented by Department Adjutant L. A. Spillane who is also the war risk insurance officer:

Premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually on government insurance.

All converted policies bear yearly dividends.

Policies have the permanent and total disability clauses.

You may borrow on converted policies any time after the first policy year.

No matter what your occupation is may carry government insurance. Commercial companies are forced to make certain restrictions as to travel and occupation.

The premiums are lower than premiums of policies of like nature offered by commercial companies. We give insurance at cost, for we have no agents to pay. The cost of upkeep is borne by the government and not by the policy holder.

If you are an ex-service man and had insurance in the service, you can still carry it unless now permanently or totally disabled and your disability is not due to service.

The insured may change his beneficiary at any time.

The face of the converted policy may be paid to beneficiary in one lump sum. This is optional with the insured.

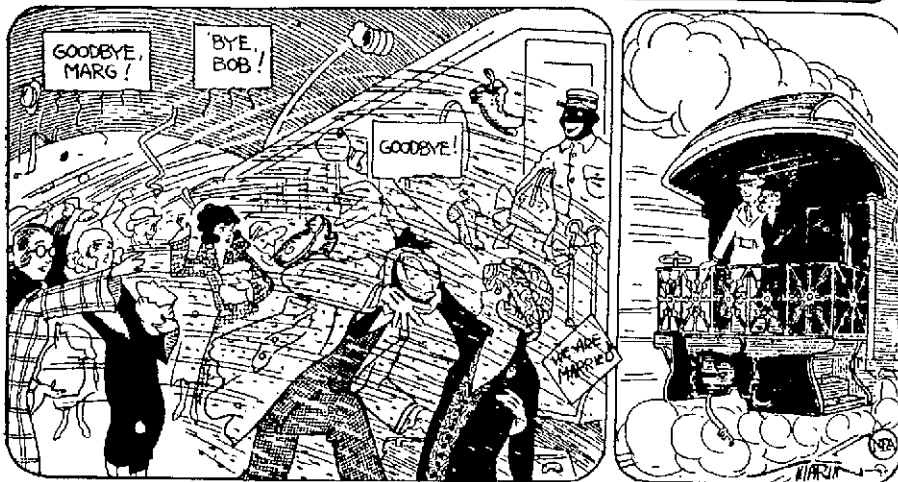

Proceeds of these policies are exempt from taxation.

"You can 'cash in' on government converted insurance at any time after the end of the first policy year.

JOSEF HOFFMAN GUEST AT YORICK CLUB

Josef Hoffmann, internationally known as a pianist, but who has coupled with his art a most unusual bent for mechanics and an inventive genius, again was a Lowell visitor on Friday, when he came to the city as the guest of John A. Stevens, civil engineer and was entertained by him at the Yorick club at a buffet luncheon. Several scores of many of Lowell's best known citizens accepted invitations to the luncheon and prized highly the opportunity of meeting Mr. Hoffmann and of learning more of his diversified talents.

The reason for Mr. Hoffmann's two visits to Lowell within a month is that Mr. Stevens is interested with him in the development and manufacture of an improved shock absorber of the pianist's invention, several sets of which already have found local sale.

Mr. Hoffmann seldom talks of musical matters and only when directly questioned concerning his concert tours and his art in general. He is bubbling over with mechanics and in this respect differs most pronouncedly from any of his fellow artists. He is an engaging conversationalist and Friday evening was most interesting in recitals of his world-wide travels.

Mr. Stevens was a splendid host and those privileged to attend the luncheon found it a most congenial occasion and fully appreciated the chance given to rub elbows with one of the world's greatest piano masters, who at the same time, has a strong penchant for thinking out and solving highly technical problems that require real engineering skill.

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES INC. EXPANDING

Lowell Goodwill Industries, incorporated, is expanding with the times. On Friday morning next, the well known social service organization that has been serving the needs of impoverished Lowell men, women and children in rather inadequate workrooms and restricted sales quarters at No. 63 Brookings street, will open a new and large headquarters at No. 36 Paige street.

The new Goodwill industrial department occupies the large room, taking up the entire old vestry of the former Central M. E. church.

Members of the local Greek-speaking colony who are not affiliated with the present Greek Holy Trinity church organization on Jefferson street have leased the upper floor of the former Methodist church, and yesterday conducted their first services there. The lease will run for one year, and in the meantime, the parishioners plan to secure a more desirable location for their religious organization, which has no relation to the present Greek church society on Jefferson street.

The new Goodwill branch sales store has an area of about 800 square feet. It is being modernized thoroughly and the cost will not be small. There are two large bay windows, very tall, and side bay windows in the entranceway. Golden letters on the window panes bear the words "Goodwill Store." Placards behind the window panes read as follows:

"The Goodwill Store will open here soon enlarged quarters, with all kinds of clothing, furniture and household goods. Now at 63 Brookings street." Rev. Alan B. Rockes, pastor of the Church of All Nations and superintendent of Lowell Goodwill Industries, announced today that the formal opening of the new store, scheduled for April 21, was deferred until next Friday because of unfinished renovations. The present quarters on Brookings street will not be discontinued, neither will the main offices of the corporation be transferred. The new store is to provide better displays of goods distributed and also give an opportunity for the establishment of another workshop in a section of the Brookings street building, which has long been desired.

About 10 new employees will be needed when the Paige street salesrooms are operating. Plans are now being made to have a formal re-opening ceremony.

The new department will be open from 8.30 to 5.30 p. m. on week-days, except Saturday, when the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Directors of the Goodwill Industries have started an energetic campaign to raise money to pay the expense incurred by the Paige street store extension. One hundred Lowell business men have interested themselves in the campaign and pledges are coming in now, each check bringing $25. It is a campaign that was started quietly and without public notice in advance.

Dudley L. Page is president of Lowell Goodwill Industries, Inc., Judge John J. Pickman, vice president; Miss Emily M. Skilton and Henry G. Brooks.

AS TO PRISON REFORM

Prison reform is favored in every state of the American Union, but yet little progress is made in the treatment of prisoners with a view to breaking them of their evil habits and giving them a healthy respect for the law. There is of late far too much talk of curing all of their criminal habits by medical or psychiatric treatment. The best results are attained when prisoners are dealt with as human beings rather than dogs, when their individual tendencies are treated in a psychological way even as the school teacher treats a child in order to get the best educational results. An Illinois publication discussing the causes of crime says:

"Out of a thousand inmates questioned here last summer 71.3 per cent. were not over 20 years old, ranging in age from 16 to 29 years; 61.8 per cent. came from broken homes; and 82.1 per cent. attributed their downfall to bad companions and pool-rooms; 76.4 per cent. did not receive religious instruction for a year or more prior to their arrest; and 82.9 per cent. had quit church. Home life was broken by the death or divorce of parents and protracted absence in 87.4 per cent. of the thousand cases. Ten per cent. of the homes were broken by separation or divorce, and 51.8 per cent. by the death of one or both parents. Mothers of inmates were dead in 14.6 per cent. of the cases and the father in 26.1 per cent. Both were dead in 11.1 per cent. of the cases, and 25.6 per cent. of the inmates were not living with their parents."

Too many reformers class all prisoners alike; but they are as different as any other equal number of human beings who can be collected together. The opinion that criminals are in prison because they are abnormal or mentally defective is not correct as applied to the vast bulk of prisoners. There are such, of course, but it is wrong to look upon all or any large proportion of them as morose, irresponsible, paranoiacs, kleptomaniacs, drug addicts or drunkards.

Can there be any common treatment that will be equally applicable to all? None except to treat them symptomatically as human beings and in a spirit of pity rather than revenge.

As the quotation above shows, many of them were neglected through irresponsible parents, broken homes, bad example, overpowering temptation, lack of religious instruction that would enlighten them as to the difference between right and wrong, give them a sense of duty and responsibility, together with a conscience, that toward mother that protests against wrongdoing and grants peace of mind only when the laws of God, of justice and humanity are observed.

The prisons are filled with moral wrecks, men who have yielded to temptation because they were not sufficiently steered against the wrong and the moral dangers that drag men down and make them social outcasts.

For these human derelicts, all true reformative methods should be used to break them of their bad habits, give them self-respect, a sense of religious duty and a higher educational outlook, so that they will soon return to the criminal habits that brought them down to disgrace and degradation. This is scarcely any man so low and indurated in crime, that there is not some spark of manhood and of character left in him. That is to be cultivated and increased so that self-control, self-respect and self-reliance may be established as among the foremost steps to real reform.

But the danger to be guarded against above all is, that prisoners convicted of one crime shall not be turned out as a result of evil associations, at the commission of many. Too many of our prisoners are schools of crime.

In this country we seem to have little success in the reformation of criminals, just as we have notoriously poor success in the capture and conviction of bandits, highway robbers and gunmen who shoot down anybody who attempts to thwart their criminal devices.

This question of prison reform is a big one, and it is not to be solved by any special nostrum, such as classification and psychiatric treatment. Industrial training, education, religion and all sorts of remedies which if skillfully applied would attain the most gratifying results.

EXPANDING TRUCK SERVICE

Railroad corporations in many parts of the United States, have been expanding their motor truck transportation service quite rapidly. Five "trucking zones" have now been established by the New York Central lines in western New York. Motor vehicles now carry less-than-carload freight, formerly handled by peddle freight trains, as they have been termed by officials of the railroads. Motor trucks now handle vast quantities of freight consigned to railroad distribution systems, even replacing unprofitable local freight trains in the metropolitan area of New York.

It is expected that New England railroad lines will take up the motor truck auxiliary service soon. There is a demand for it in many large communities, particularly in Greater Boston freight transfer districts, in Springfield and, presumably also in Lowell.

In some states, certain private motor trucking interests, have indignantly expressed opposition to the plan, claiming that the railroads should let the work of distributing railroad freight by automobile trucks out to private individuals and not compete with them. They claim that powerful competition by railroad interests using highways outside of the ordinary regulation rail lines and connections, would be unfair competition and perhaps illegal.

It may interest motor truck owners to know that the New York Central's present campaign to distribute freight consignments in near-at-hand destination districts from a central receiving point, does not involve the corporation owning motor conveyances and operating them in competition with private trucking interests. On the contrary, we are informed that no motor transport trucks are owned by the New York Central, but contracts are made with large motor truck haulage companies instead.

Middle west and south are adopting a similar policy of live and let live in the progressive mode of distributing the merchandise of the world today.

DRUG ADDICTS INCREASING

Government authorities and prison officials, having to do with the enforcement of the narcotic laws, give out statistics indicating a great increase in the number of drug addicts, supposed to result from prohibition, on the ground that those who cannot get drunk, try to get the drugs.

Richard P. Hobson, president of the International Narcotic Education Association, says: "It is estimated that more than nine-tenths of all murders, hold-ups, and daring robberies, are committed by drug addicts. At least one and a quarter million Americans, he says, are victims of the drug habit, and one-fourth of them are not usefully employed." Captain Hobson asserts that the drug habit is making the greatest laradars among the youth of America. "The youth," he says, "will become an addict in ten days, whereas adults usually take three times as long." The Harrison act provides penalties for the dope peddlers convicted under the law. It is evident, however, that there is as much difficulty in enforcing this law and perhaps even more, than in enforcing the prohibition law. Capt. Hobson favors the instruction of youth against the dangers of drugs, claiming that if children are made aware of the dangers, the agonies and despair that drugs bring on, they will not be so easily led into the habit. The first step, however, is to banish the dope peddlers and put them in prison, where they will meet many of their victims. Between the use of these deadly drugs and poisonous moonshine, the country is certainly in a bad way at the present time, and in spite of all the money expended for the enforcement of the law, the progress made in that direction seems to be unsatisfactory.

STILL MORE AUTOS

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin announces that an increase of more than 100,000 automobiles has taken place thus far this season, for the first quarter of the year ending with March 31. These figures show that the registrations for January, February and March, of cars and trucks, totaled 403,232, which is 103,945 more than in the first three months of last year. This increase figures about 35 per cent and is the heaviest that has ever been recorded in this state.

The 1921 quarterly summary shows that trucks have gained in number of registrations more than 17 per cent—the actual increase being 10,418. This is further proof that motor truck transportation is becoming steadily more popular for "short-hauling" and also for long-distance hauling, although the increase comes in the districts where short-hauls from railroad freight distribution centers are steadily increasing in volume.

HUGHES TO BLAME

Secretary Hughes erred diplomatically when he suggested the offensive letter to the Japanese ambassador to the senate. He might have known that it would cause a rumpus. It is now predicted that the president will neither sign nor veto the immigration bill, but will allow it to become law automatically. Thus the exclusion of Japanese will be decreed.

It will lead to trouble, of course, with these hot-headed and belligerent orientals, and it will be a sort of asset to reunite the republican party now split to fragments. The whole trouble has arisen from a matter having been brought before the senate that was not intended for it.

MUNICIPAL SPENDERS

Cities have embarked on another big spending jag. More municipal bond issues were authorized and sold during March than in any March since 1915. The total was over $5 million dollars. Municipalities in our country are working for the future, by new bonds, at the rate of more than a billion dollars a year. While a lot of this spending is for permanent public improvements, the expenditure is far beyond what can be afforded. It is like a man constantly spending more than he makes, and increasingly going into debt to pay the difference. Lowell is not one of the cities listed in the extravagance role.

BUSINESS

The business outlook continues good. Steel ingot production set a new high record in March. "So goes steel, so goes general business."

Another metal, copper, also smashed all records in March. This is important economic news, for the copper industry was exceptionally hard hit during the last depression and remained so after most other commodities began to show real life and activity.

Lawrence and her police force are concerned with the number of clowns that have become public nuisances in the town of Methuen. Apparently such reports are being made the rendezvous of bootleggers and disorderly drinking parties—a bad state of affairs in the vicinity of any city.

And now the bonus which President Coolidge said he would not allow, is given the right of way in the senate. The question is, will the president sign the bill when it reaches him, or will he allow the measure to be passed over his veto?

Poor Apple Picker

"Want a man to pick apples?" The farmer gave him a job. But the helper heaped good fruit, bad fruit and indifferent fruit together indiscriminately. So after he had emptied a basket or two, the farmer asked in some disgust: "Did you ever try to pick anything before?" "Race horses."

Making Him Happy

"What have you there?" asked the proprietor of a fashionable mountain hotel. "Another letter from that chump who has been writing you for rates all summer." "Well, let's see it. We can't make him happy. Offer him our best suite for ten a week." "But—" "And add a postscript that the hotel is closed."

Seriousness of Wit

Theodore Hook, the noted wit, was once asked why professional humorists are so solemn looking. He proceeded to deliver his theory, under the direction of a serious business, he explained. "It is true once in a while one of them writes a good joke." "Well?" "Here is where the sad part comes in. He never knows when he is going to write another."

Quarreling Neighbors

Mrs. Ginger was always quarreling with her next-door neighbor. Unfortunately, the two ladies could never confine themselves to really witty remarks for many minutes together, and they always descended to personalities. Wednesday morning, they were washing over for the week, they foregathered in their respective back gardens for their usual "friendly" chat. "I hear you've been talking about me to Mrs. Jinks," said the neighbor spitefully. Mrs. Ginger's face assumed a hue that was not far from her name. "Oh, indeed?" she retorted. "Butter I would have, but at least I am not two-faced." "No, dear, I can see that," replied her neighbor sweetly. "If you were, you would not come out in the garden with the one you are wearing, would you?"

Childhood on the Farm

In many a crowded city, there moves the human tide. Eyes look with longing to some old countryside. Hearts that have long been sated With earth recall the charm Of life's fresh morning splendor In childhood on the farm.

From many a path of glory And many a throne of power Is still recalled the wonder Of some dear distant hour. Men look through years of toiling; Of sorrow, strife and harm, And treasure unforgetting Their childhood on the farm.

The corn crop now is impeded by the "borer" insect, just as cotton by the boll weevil. The corn borer came from Europe. It was discovered first in our country in 1917 among brown corn of eastern Massachusetts. Attracted to "amaranthine" it is falling. The borer is moving westward into the big corn belt at the rate of 100 miles a year. It is said to be the most difficult of plant life pests to control.

A titanic struggle between man and insect life is being waged now. So far, insects have not become as great a menace as disease bacteria—plant life, consists of foodstuffs.

ELABORATE EASTER SERVICES IN LOWELL CHURCHES

PROTESTANT CHURCHES IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Large Congregations Enjoy Impressive Services Mark Festival—Easter Sermons Closing of Lenten Season—Beautiful Decorations—Special Music

With services perfectly in tune with the joyous message of Easter, the Protestant churches of Lowell yesterday observed the anniversary of Christ's glorious resurrection and triumph over death.

For Hith there was no death and time has no power to weave for such as He a garment of forgetfulness. So it was yesterday when every house of worship was literally filled to the doors with churchgoers eager to have a part in the Easter festival. Church schools in many places gave pageants and appropriate programs at the evening services hour and beautiful decorations of spring flowers, with lilies predominating, added color to all the services.

In every church, pastors took the Easter message as their sermon theme and although treatments of the story varied in individual instances, the principal thought was the Savior's crucifixion upon Calvary and his subsequent resurrection on Easter morning to become the ever-living Christ.

Three services were held at St. Anne's Episcopal church, at 7.30, 9 and 10.15 a.m., with a sermon by the rector, Rev. Appleton Grinnell at the final one. There also was holy communion at all three services. An elaborate musical program was given by a vocal choir of 100 voices under the direction of Organist William C. Heller. In the evening, the church school gave its Easter carol service. Several hundred persons were turned away from the morning service at 10.15 o'clock and others, although inside the edifice, were obliged to stand.

Another overflow congregation was seen at St. John's Episcopal church at 10.15 a.m. The other morning service of communion was at 7 o'clock. Rev. Henry Quinby had charge of the services and a fine musical program was given by the choir under the direction of Frank W. Davis, choirmaster, and Wallace Logan, organist. An orchestra assisted.

Rev. Edward Babcock, D.D., preached the Easter sermon at the First Baptist church and the morning and evening services were especially well attended. The special choir music was given under the direction of Warren T. Reid. Miss Helen Brown sang as organist. Parents and special Easter programs were features of the services at the Calvary, Chelmsford Street, Central and Fifth Street Baptist churches.

Beautiful decorations were in evidence at the Ellet Union Congregational church and the day's services were largely attended. The pastor, Rev. William B. Tuttle, D.D., preached in the morning on the topic, "The Prophecy of the Christian Ideal." In the evening, members of the church school presented the pageant "Easter and the Forty Days."

Impressive and dignified was the morning service at All Souls church and the beauty of the edifice was enhanced by effective floral decorations. The Easter sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. Arthur C. McGiffert, Jr.

At the First Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Percy E. Thomas, preached at the morning service upon "The Value of Belief in Immortality," and in the evening his topic was the question, "Is There a Soul?" In addition to splendid singing by the church choir, there was special music by Miss Louise Melvin, harpist, of Boston.

The choir of the First Universalist church was augmented for Easter Sunday and also had the assistance of a string orchestra. The music was under the direction of Harry C. Neudham, with George B. Smith as organist. The sermon was preached by the new pastor, Rev. Harold W. Haynes. At the Grace Universalist church, Rev. Isaac Smith preached on "Spiritual Immortality."

A cantata, "The Easter King," was given by the choir and members of the Sunday school at the Centralville M.E. church at the evening service. An overflow congregation heard the sermon at the morning service by the pastor, Rev. L. E. Shields.

At St. Paul's M.E. church, the pastor, Rev. C. S. Otto, preached both morning and evening and at the latter service the Weber made quartet of Boston assisted the regular church choir in a special program of music.

The Highland Union M.E. church was lit Sunday evening for the pageant "The Dawning" and the same Easter story was given by members of the church school at the Centralville M.E. church. The radio quartet of Boston, assisted at the evening service at the Church of All Nations in Worthen Street.

"The King Triumphant" was the cantata given at the Matthews Memorial P.M. church Sunday evening and there also was special music at the morning service at which the pastor, Rev. John T. Dillon, preached.

EASTER SERVICES AT ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Easter Sunday services at All Saints' church, Chelmsford Centre, were largely attended. Worshipers eager to observe the anniversary in spirit with the seasonal programs of joy and rebirth.

Beautiful decorations enhanced the appearance of the church interior. The church was adorned with white silk carnations and many lilies, carnations and other white flowers. The flowers placed in vases and standing on the ledge of the road screen, presented a picturesque and charming sight. Two tall Easter lilies stood on the altar steps.

The service was sung by a choir of 15 voices, with Mr. Wood at the organ. Rev. Wilson Waters delivered a very appropriate Easter sermon, taking for his topic the subject: "If a Man Die, Shall he Live Again?"

Best fact, clarified, is a good substitute for better in shortening his life and glimmering.

The penitential season of Lent was brought to an impressive close in Catholic churches yesterday when the angelic utterance, "He is risen; He is not here," proclaimed the glorious occasion of Easter-tide, or the feast of the miraculous resurrection of Christ after His three-day entombment near the scene of His Good Friday crucifixion on Mount Calvary nearly 2000 years ago.

It was a day of religious rejoicing, made all the more impressive after a 40-day period of fast, abstinence and self-denial. Solemn high masses were sung in all the churches with the choirs rendering elaborate musical programs. Altars were artistically decorated with fragrant and immaculate white lilies, potted palms and flowers, and myriad candles burned during the inspiring services.

"Peace be to you" was the keynote of the day's sermons.

The 6 and 7 o'clock masses in St. Patrick's church yesterday were celebrated by Rev. James A. Supple, D.D. The 8.30 and 9.30 o'clock masses were celebrated by Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, while the celebrant of the high mass was Rev. John J. McGarry, D.D., pastor. An eloquent Easter sermon was delivered by Rev. Thomas J. McDonough. Music, appropriate to the occasion, was rendered by the church and sanctuary choirs.

The boys of the parish will go to confession next Friday afternoon. Friday evening, Holy hour services will be held. A regular meeting of the Married Ladies' sodality will be held Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

An inspiring Easter message was delivered to the parishioners of the immaculate Conception church at the 11 o'clock mass yesterday by Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, O.M.I., Oblate provincial. The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. John C. Duffy, O.M.I., with Rev. Martin Norton, O.M.I., as deacon, and Rev. W. A. Robb, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. Elaborate musical programs, under the direction of James S. King and Mrs. Hugh Walker, were rendered during the mass and at the solemn vesper service in the evening at 6.30 o'clock.

The solemn high mass in St. Peter's church was celebrated by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, assisted by Rev. Francis L. Shea as deacon, and Rev. John M. Munton as sub-deacon. A beautiful Easter sermon was preached by Very Rev. Daniel J. Kelsner, Ph.D., pastor. The music was singularly impressive.

The annual mission will open next Sunday with members of the Pastoral order in charge. The Married Ladies' sodality will meet Wednesday evening, and the Propagation of the Faith society, Thursday evening.

A choir of 60 voices under the direction of Organist Raymond Kelley gave an elaborate musical program in connection with the services in the Sacred Heart church yesterday. From chancel rail to the altar, the sanctuary was a mass of Easter lilies and flowers, presenting a most inspiring setting for the great feast-day observance. The soloists were John McMahon, Raymond Kelley, James Cusick, Mrs. Stephen Garrity, Mrs. Russell Godel, Veronica Barr and Irene Hawkins. The gospel story of the resurrection was expertly sung by a vested choir of boys at the 8.30 and high masses.

"I am the resurrection and the life," was the text of the sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dennis J. Dillon, O.M.I. The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. William J. Kirwin, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Charles Barry, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. Gerald Kenelady, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. A capacity congregation attended vesper service in the evening.

An artistic arrangement of floral designs adorned the main altar of St. Michael's church yesterday. The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Aloysius G. Madden, with Rev. James F. Lynch as deacon, and Rev. Thomas J. Heagney as sub-deacon. The pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw, was seated in the sanctuary. The church and sanctuary choirs, under the direction of Mr. Murphy, presented beautiful musical programs at the high mass and at vesper services in the evening.

Announcement was made at all the masses yesterday that a mission for the women of the parish will begin May 11. The following week will be for the men. As for the past several years, Dominican fathers will be in charge.

The pastor, Rev. Charles J. Galligan, was the celebrant of the 7 o'clock mass in St. Margaret's church yesterday. Rev. Andrew F. O'Brien celebrated the children's mass at 8.30 o'clock, and also the 9.45 o'clock mass. The high mass at 11 o'clock was sung by Rev. William F. Brennan. A special Easter musical program was rendered by the church choir at evening vesper services.

In St. Columba's church yesterday, the 7 and 8.30 o'clock masses were celebrated by Rev. Cornelius J. Cotter, while the pastor, Rev. John J. Powers, celebrated the 10 and 11 o'clock masses. Vesper service was held at 6.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

A pretty play, will be presented by young parish talent in the Academy of Music on the evenings of April 21 and 25.

An Easter procession was held in Holy Trinity (Polish) church after the 8.30 o'clock mass yesterday. The pastor, Rev. A. Gonsowski presided at head of the procession, followed by Rev. J. J. Duziak, one of the priests who consecrated the recent mission. The high mass was celebrated by the pastor, and Rev. Fr. Duziak preached. The choir rendered an impressive musical program at the mass and at vespers in the afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I., was the celebrant of the high mass at 10.30 at St. John's church yesterday morning. He was assisted by Rev. J. E. Pratte, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. J. Barry, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. Rev. Louis A. Nolin, O.M.I., delivered the sermon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Telephore Male rendered

SIGH NO MORE, LADIES

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more; Men were deceivers ever; One foot in sea, and one on shore, To one thing constant never:

Then sigh not so, But let them go, And be you blythe and bonny; Converting all your sounds of woe Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

Sing no more ditties, sing no moe Of dumps so dull and heavy; The fraud of men was ever so, Since summer first was leavy:

Then sigh not so, But let them go, And be you blythe and bonny; Converting all your sounds of woe Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

—William Shakespeare.

Nibbling

No doubt it's true that also you have lost your appetite at this or that or else some other time. You find you fret o'er food you get; it doesn't look just right, and for a meal you wouldn't give a dime.

The pangs of hunger are not there when it is time to eat, and nothing seems to strike your fancy right. The people at the lunch room have a lineup that's a treat, but often times you never eat a bite.

There's pleasure, true, in dining, but the hunger must be there or else the pleasure doesn't mean a thing. You find yourself a-whining 'cause you really do not care for anything that waitresses may bring.

Well, say, that surely isn't as it really ought to be. When hunger's shy you know there's something wrong, and here's the honest answer, if you leave that point to me: you've been nibbling in between meals all day long.

The orchestra, under the direction of Henri Lavigne, played the Processional march, preceding the mass and also accompanied the singers. Marche Triomphale was given by the orchestra and the organ, at the conclusion of the services. Miss Lena B. Camire presided at the organ.

Very Rev. J. E. Turcotte celebrated the high mass at 11 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church. Rev. Augustin Gosselin, O.M.I., assisted the celebrant as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Bolduc. Kreschner's mass was rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. Rudolphe Peplu, who also presided at the organ. Miss Fleur-Angie Brousseau, Mrs. Edith Peplu, Mrs. Maria Jacques, Mr. Arthur Paquin, Miss Eva Dupuis, Mr. Arthur Leveillé, Dr. George E. Caluso and Mr. Alfred Ducharme, sustained the solos during the mass. Vesper services were held in the evening.

Rev. Charles Paquette, O.M.I., celebrated the high mass at St. Anne's church, at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning. He was assisted by Rev. Lucien Brassard, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. D. Lafferrerie, O.M.I., of Hudson as sub-deacon. The soloists of the mass were Miss Emily Guadette, Mrs. W. Lambert, Mr. Louis Letendre, Mr. Nestor Hebert, Mr. Felix Letendre and Miss Nora Regan Longtin. Miss Stella Lavigne presided at the organ, while the choir was directed by Dr. H. B. Chagnon.

The regular communion of the members of St. Anne's sodality was held at the 8.30 o'clock mass at St. Jeanne D'Arc's church yesterday morning. The high mass at 11 o'clock was sung by the pastor, Rev. Leon Lamotte, O.M.I., while the sermon was delivered by Rev. Amédée Merrill, O.M.I. The soloists of the mass were Rev. J. E. Pratte, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. J. Barry, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. Rev. Louis A. Nolin, O.M.I., delivered the sermon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Telephore Male rendered

THE OLD HOME TOWN

LOWELL GUILD BALL TO BE BIG EVENT

Plans are all completed for the after Easter ball by the Lowell Guild at the Memorial Auditorium, Tuesday evening, and a wonderful party, in every detail, is assured. No pains have been spared to make this ball a more brilliant success than the one last year and the chairman and every committee working are agreed that they have something real and out of the ordinary to offer.

The big feature of the ball is the coming of Miss Beatha Braggiotti, who will be seen in a solo dance called "Moon of Love." She will have to assist her five young women who will give a dance called "Searing." One other dance will complete this program which will begin about 9.45.

These dances of Miss Braggiotti are the very height of beauty and artistry and her work stands alone in originality and plastic technique.

Campbell's augmented orchestra will furnish music for the dancing and all the latest dance music will be heard at its best.

The check rooms are to be in charge of a committee of well known ladies and gentlemen who, indeed, are showing their spirit of service to the guild. This committee consists of Mr. C. Arthur Abbott, Miss Bertha Abbott, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Morton, Mrs. Clarence Hoyt, Misses Dorothy and Phyllis Coward.

The ushering is in charge of the Masons.

Just look at this for a dainty menu and all for 75 cents:

Chicken and mushrooms
Points of real home-made puff paste Vegetables in aspic, mayonnaise
Saratoga potatoes, olives
Ice cream and home-made cake

At the booths will be sherbert and orangeade for sale and the booths will be ably taken charge of by the following: Mrs. Charles L. Stover, Mrs. D. O. Swan, Mrs. Warren Mansur, chairman, and Mrs. Theodore Hobson, Mrs. Walter Wilton, Mrs. Harold Fletcher, Mrs. Stephen Scribner, Mrs. Ames Stovers, Mrs. Leroy Patchett, Mrs. Francis Millough, Mrs. Harold Hooper, Mrs. Russell Dana, Mrs. Allan Dumas, Mrs. Oden Pyke, Mrs. Edward Woodward, Mrs. Lawrence Richardson, Mrs. John Robertson, Jr., Mrs. Alden Sherman, Mrs. Edward Abbott, Mrs. Emily Sturgis, Miss Barbara Brown, Miss Leslie Hyman, Miss Elizabeth Meigs, Miss Emily Wiggins, Miss Eleanor Burrage, Miss Helen Evelett, Miss Sarah Love Meigs.

It is impossible to tell of the wonderful help and the spirit of co-operation met everywhere and it is through this help and co-operation that it is possible to give much for your money.

AT ASSOCIATE HALL

One of the biggest events of the year will be staged at Associate Hall tonight when Shepard's Colonial orchestra and Frankie Ward's Avalon orchestra will engage in a battle of music. Both teams are Boston organizations and a keen rivalry exists between them. Shepard's Colonial has been heard by radio fans as it has been broadcasting dance music for several months and delighted a large crowd when it appeared in this city during the early part of the year. Frankie Ward's orchestra has been the main attraction at the Avalon dance carnival in Boston and has an excellent reputation as a first class organization. Tonight's affair will be a genuine surprise to the Lowell dance enthusiasts and a real good time is on the card for those who like the best in dance music. The dancing surface is in the best of condition and everything is all set for an evening of real enjoyment. The admission tonight is 50 cents with free-checking. Tomorrow night the Rose Girls will hold their annual dancing party in this hall.

LOCAL PLANNING BOARD

Cambridge Man Engaged to Zone the City—Election of Officers

The planning board Friday afternoon re-elected its present officers and voted to engage Arthur J. Conroy of Cambridge to zone the city. Mr. Conroy's engagement is subject to approval by the mayor and the proposal has been forwarded Mayor Donovan for his approval.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET THIS WEEK

Chairman Daniel Cosgrove of the city council committee investigating the methods of the board of assessors will call a meeting early this week. The committee met Friday afternoon but adjourned because of the solemnity of the day. Councilman McFadden, the third member of the committee was absent Friday and Councilor Genest moved the adjournment.

Spring Find You Feeling Miserable?

Do You Suffer Daily Backache—Feel Tired and Worn-Out? Then Follow the Advice of These Lowell Folks!

HAS winter left you with throbbing backache and torturing rheumatic twinges? Do you get up lame and stiff; lag through the day feeling weak, nervous—all tired out?

Isn't it time, then, you found out why you are so run down—so unable to enjoy the first fine days of spring?

There must be a cause. What is it?

How about your kidneys? Have you given them any thought? Winter, you know, is apt to be mighty hard on the kidneys. One eats heavier food, drinks less water and takes less exercise. Add, then, the strain of winter's colds and chills and it's little wonder the kidneys weaken and allow body poisons to accumulate and upset blood and nerves.

That's why spring is apt to find so many folks feeling tired and worn-out: miserable with constant backache; rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities.

Don't risk neglect! Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. Lowell folks recommend them. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Lowell Folks:

Charles Seymour, painter, 126 Lincoln St., says: "The fumes of turpentine weakened my kidneys and I had to get up several times every night. I had a constant dull ache in my back and stooping brought on sharp pains. I got Doan's Pills at Howard's Drug Store and they drove all the trouble from me."

Mrs. C. Lemay, 155 Lawrence St., says: "I had awful pains in my back and if I got down I had a time of it to get up again. I couldn't do much housework and tired quickly. I became dizzy and my kidneys were badly disordered, too. Doan's Pills rid me of the trouble and I have had no return of it."

EASTER SERVICES AT THE AUDITORIUM

The story of Easter was told in beautiful language at the Memorial Auditorium Sunday afternoon at the services held under the auspices of Pilgrim Commandery, No. 9, Knights Templar. Despite a drizzling rain which did not have a tendency to send people out of doors, nearly 3000 men and women were in attendance and in every respect the services were a source of inspiration and a distinct credit to the Commandery officers who conceived them.

Pilgrim Commandery was signally and highly honored by the appearance of Most Worshipful Rev. Dudley H. Ferrell of Lynn, grand master of Masons in Massachusetts, who preached the sermon. A brilliant theologian, he also is an orator and preacher of wide renown and his treatment of the familiar Easter story based upon Christ's triumph over death made a masterful address.

The Lowell Masonic choir, under the leadership of Sir Knight Albert Edmund Brown, had a most important part in the order of service and in addition to leading in the congregational singing of such old hymns as "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "O God, Our Help," sang most effectively "The Strife is Over," by Salter; Macdougall's arrangement of "Onward Christian Soldiers," Kremer's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and the beautiful Beethoven number "God's Glory in Nature." In a very great degree the choir added to the deep and significant religious note sounded by the service.

The responsive reading was led by Sir Knight, Rev. Percy K. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, and he also read the Scripture lesson, gave the prayer and pronounced the benediction.

"For the Christ who died on Calvary there was no death," said Rev. Mr. Ferrell, "and the passing of twenty centuries has served only to brighten the lustre of the jewels in His crown. Time has no power to weave for such as He a garment of forgetfulness and the civilization enjoyed today is the direct result of His great self-sacrifice that men might come to know God as the Father of all living things."

In language that was fraught with meaning and significance the preacher told the story of Christ's death upon the cross and the glorious resurrection and in a vivid word picture painted for the congregation the reflections of His life upon the world of today.

Pilgrim Commandery, led by Commander Frank W. Dobson, with fully 200 men in line, marched to and from the Auditorium and during the service occupied a block of chairs on the floor to the right of the stage.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS VISIT BATTLES HOME

The various local lodges of Knights of Pythias visited brother members at the Battles home Thursday evening and after putting on a splendid entertainment program distributed cigars and tobacco among the inmates. Wamsit lodge orchestra, under Julius Woessner, played several selections and a number of Mr. Woessner's pupils gave solo numbers. An address of good cheer was given by John Blair and the party broke up following the serving of refreshments by the matron.

Reduced Price Sale of Coke Is Almost Over

Only nine week days remain in which to make a big saving in your next winter's fuel bill.

Thursday, May 1, the regular summer price for Lowell Coke will prevail. Until that date those who have not already taken advantage of the reduced price sale have an opportunity to do so.

Lowell Coke

is easily the most popular solid fuel in Lowell. The sale this year has already far exceeded the tonnage for the full month of April last year.

During the next few days we expect to break all records. Those who buy Lowell Coke get more heat units, less ash, greater value, and—sixty bushels.

When you buy insist on getting 60 bushels to the ton. It lasts longer, and insures for you a big financial saving.

PHINNEY BOYLE TURNS TABLES ON WILLIE GRADWELL IN FAST BOUT

Lowell Boy Scores Knockdown in First Round—Gradwell Came Back Strong and Put Up Good Argument—Nelson Beats Adams

Phinney Boyle eyed up the score by winning over Willie Gradwell in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent rink Saturday night. A great crowd turned out to see the battle and the decision to the Lowell boy met with general approval.

Boyle entered the ring with grim determination. He had trained, under the careful direction of Jack Leahy, with but one thought in his mind—to win. He pushed and he came very near carrying out his intention in the very first round. Opening up a whirlwind attack, Boyle backed Gradwell into a corner, and then, like a flash, out of a clear sky he flipped up a short, stiff blow to the head that sent Willie sprawling on the mat. The class was over. Gradwell was out for some time and Gradwell was up in a flash. He closed in and held on until the bell.

Gradwell, realizing the important part a knockdown would figure in the scoring, tore at Boyle in the second round, and he continued to do the leading all through the session. Phinney Boyle, however, was not to be taken. Gradwell's blows on the arm, and hand, and chest, but a few of them landed.

Gradwell continued offensive operations in the third, fourth and fifth, his aggressiveness in these rounds giving him many points. In the sixth Boyle, who had been holding Gradwell's arm, completely interrupted the rout. Here he went out to grab the lead. He lunched forth and drove home some telling blows and he had the fans in a roar. In the seventh, however, Gradwell, the Lowell boy continued on the attack. He tore at Gradwell as he did in the first round. He gave Boyle a good spanking in the eighth. He was hitting well, timing his blows perfectly, and ducking and sidestepping Gradwell's attempted counters. Boyle was pushed to the limit in the succeeding rounds and he finished in a blaze of glory, though Gradwell gave him an argument in the final game. Gradwell was out for some time in the fight. He was strong at the end, justifying advanced reports of his condition, and demonstrating that at his present age he is capable of giving any of them a battle.

Schubert and Murphy Matched

At Schubert's New Bedford and Billy Murphy of Lowell have been matched to meet in the main event of the Moody club on next Thursday night.

The signing of these two men came after considerable wire pulling and discussion. Len Lowell, manager of Schubert, wanted a match but he tried to have it staged in New Bedford or Fall River. He at first positively refused to let Schubert come to Lowell, but when he found that he could not get it elsewhere he came to Lowell. He met the Lowell boys three times, with Murphy winning two decisions and Schubert the other one.

The first battle between the pair was in Lawrence. It was a hard fought battle all the way. Murphy was given the edge. Schubert protested vigorously over the decision. The pair later met in Lynn. In this bout the Lowell boy put it all over the Whaler. After the bout Manager Novell said that he felt a sick kick to go through the night. The third meeting was staged in Fall River. Here Schubert got the award, it marking the first decision ever awarded against Murphy. And the Murphy supporters declared it a great fight.

With Schubert having broken the tie, he felt confident he could do it again, and he was particularly anxious to make the attempt in New Bedford. In his home town, however, the fans, who had been anxious to see the match, told Schubert's desire to have the battle "pitched" in the White-town. One was because of his desire to wipe out the two reverses and another to show Charley Manty, who had lost the decision to Murphy, that the Lowell veteran was his master.

With matters satisfactorily adjusted, Schubert and Murphy are now training for the bout. It promises to be a bitter struggle.

LOCAL HIGHWAY

The main event topped off a splendid preliminary card. Young Ross of Lynn and Billy Adams of Lawrence went on against Penny Nelson of Lowell. Adams made a most capable substitute and gave the Lowell boy a bit of trouble. Adams, however, during the early stages Adams had the advantage. In the latter rounds Nelson rallied and fought his way to a decision. It was a close one.

Clayton of Boston and Johnny McGrade of Lowell met in the opening event. It went the distance and was a very close one. Billy Adams won a merry clip on the eighth round. In the second round Tommy Leonard of Lowell

15-Year-Old Maid Hopes to Equal Alexa's Feats

MARIAN BENNETT

It wasn't so very many years ago that Alexa Strirling, still wearing short skirts and with her hair in pig tails, started the women golfers of the nation by qualifying in the national championship.

And in another year or so the Atlanta girl started on a rampage which didn't end until she had won three successive national titles.

Little Marian Bennett of New Britain, Conn., who has just turned 15, hopes to follow in Alexa's golf steps, and experts who have seen her play insist she has a bright future.

LEONARD MAY RETURN TO DETROIT CLUB

(By N.E.A. Service)

FRESNO, Calif., April 21.—Does Dutch Leonard, famous southpaw of a few years back, intend to return to the American League?

Leonard two years ago refused to report to the Detroit Tigers because of a salary difference. The club was as stubborn about the matter as Leonard, as a result, Detroit lost a great pitcher and Leonard considerable money.

The hope is that Leonard recently applied to Commissioner Landis for reinstatement and that he has been restored to good standing again.

Detroit suffered from lack of pitching last season and finished second. Cobb is none too well satisfied with his 1924 staff, it seems.

It is well known that Manager Cobb has been in communication with Leonard several times relative to his return to the game. So it would occasion no surprise in this section if such an announcement was made shortly.

Leonard is rated as one of the game's greatest southpaws. If he is just half as good a pitcher now, as he was when in his prime, he would greatly help Detroit.

PLAN DUNDEE-WAGNER MATCH

NEW YORK, April 21.—A match between Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and Junior lightweight boxing champion, and Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia, may result from negotiations now progressing.

Accepting the challenge of Dundee that Wagner could not make the 120 pound limit, Alvin Karp, manager of the Philadelphia boy who is credited with a point decision over Dundee, wired that he would arrive here today to put $5000 cash with the state boxing commission to bind the weight agreement for a match with the featherweight champion.

COAST GOLFERS LOSE

The request of the Pacific coast professionals to be allowed to hold a qualifying round of their own for the national open championship this year, has been turned down. However, golfing officials have taken the matter under advisement and promise favorable action for 1925.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Without trying to take anything away from Mr. Abraham Goldstein, newest hero of the cloak and suit trade, the grim truth is, he copped a cheap championship by beating Joe Lynch for the bantamweight title.

Not that Mr. Goldstein should feel the necessity of apologizing to the world, either. Most championships come and go that way. Few champions are ever cut down in their prime. Stanley Ketchel was a notable exception, but he came back months later, and dethroned his conqueror.

Lynch had been sitting on the outer rim of uselessness for eighteen months and was ready to be knocked loose from his perch by the first sturdy youngster to face him. The veteran Joe Hurman would have taken him last winter if the fight had gone through, and Lynch knew it.

Wolfe Had Him Out

A Cleveland third-rater—Jack Wolfe—will not know until he reads these lines how close he came to taking the title away from Lynch more than a year ago. Wolfe had Lynch out on his feet in the ninth round, with more than a full minute to go.

Any kind of a day would have dropped the champion, who was completely exhausted, and once down he could not have got back on his feet. But Wolfe suspected the Irishman was feigning distress and did not close in. The rest period brought Lynch around.

Two months ago, Lynch was emphatically beaten at New Orleans by one of the oldest fighters in the ring, Eddie McKenna, of whom the best it may be said is that he is willing and game. McKenna had Lynch hanging on twice and in a longer bout would have stopped him.

Lynch will occupy a unique position in ring history. There were times when he looked the part of the most remarkable bantamweight of all time and other times when his work suggested the raw novice. You could never figure him from one fight to another. This inconsistency barred him from greatness.

Doesn't Like to Train

Lynch was a throw-back from the old hilarious days of pugilism. He never appreciated the monetary possibilities of the present-day game. A riotous time to him meant more than a shot at a rich purse. Training was irksome and cut savagely into one's social obligations.

Lynch says he will try to come back as a featherweight, where it will be easy to make the poundage. Of course he will take a fling at it and he may topple a few waterlogged founders with that good right hand of his but he will not create more than a passing flurry.

Had much rather call a truce.

Who will get the first title crack at Aba Goldstein, new ruler of the bantamweights?

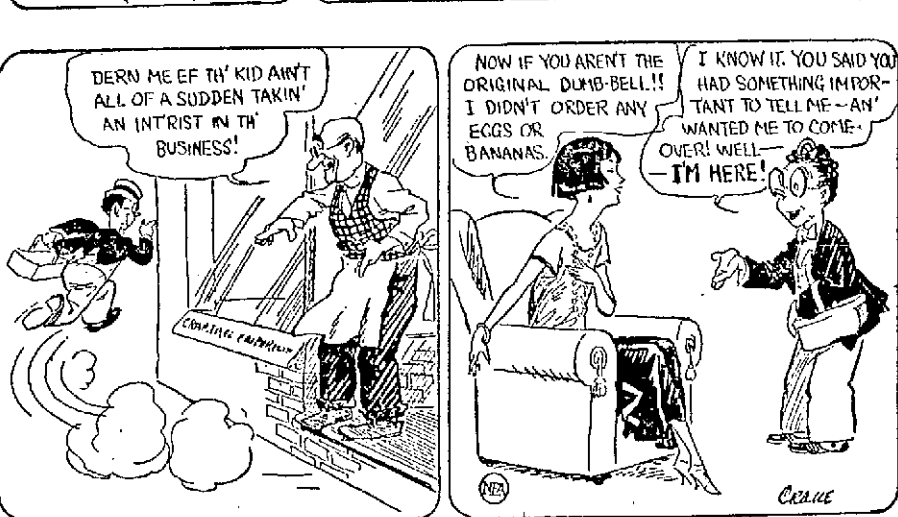

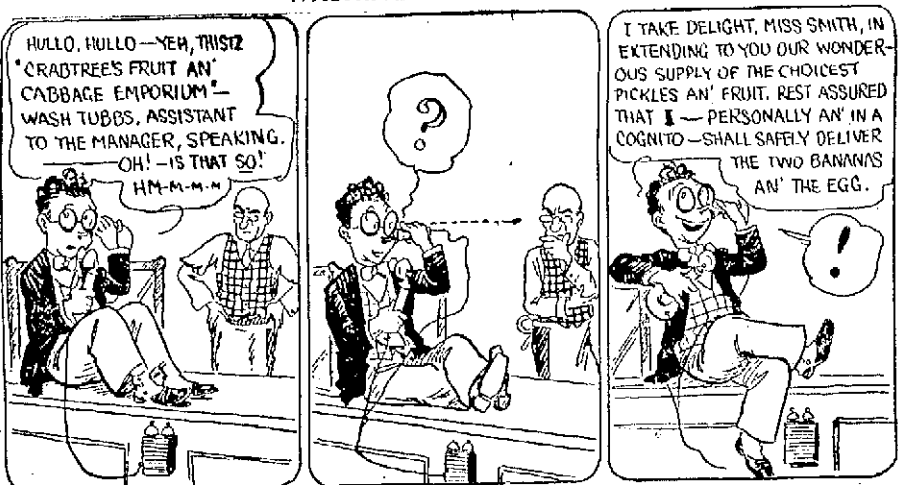

But Taylor of Terre Haute, one of the best of the new school, is qualified for a championship test.

Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus, gave Goldstein a gruelling fight some months ago in the east and on the strength of that showing is entitled to consideration.

Eddie McKenna a veteran from New Orleans, all but beat Goldstein to the title by punishing Lynch severely in the south, nearly scoring a knockout.

McKenna claims he "softened" Lynch up and thus made Goldstein's victory a simple matter of routine.

HOSPITAL PROBERS TO MEET TONIGHT

The city council committee investigating the mayor's charges of misconduct of the municipal isolation hospital will continue its hearings tonight in the council chamber at city hall.

The mayor has written the committee a letter which will be delivered to Chairman Daly at tonight's meeting and is expected to introduce a new angle to the investigation. The contents of the letter, known only to the mayor, his secretary, and the city solicitor, is being zealously guarded with a view to having it secret until it reaches the committee in open session.

The investigation, it is thought, will not end tonight. It is understood that some members of the committee are entertaining the suggestion that more hospitals throughout the state be visited and comparative data obtained before the committee makes its final findings.

POLICE EXCLUDED UNDER VETS' LAW

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 21.—Veterans holding office or employment in the public service of the commonwealth or any city or town have been excluded by the enactment of a law amending Section 26 of Chapter 31 of the general laws. This section guaranteed to veterans in such employment a hearing before boards of aldermen, selectmen of the state board of conciliation and arbitration. In the event they were employed by a city, town or state respectively. The only veterans excluded from this were those on the state or Boston police force.

The law has been amended to exclude all police from its terms. It was believed by the legislature that no uniformed force should be under it and that all police forces throughout the state should receive the same treatment as the state and Boston police. This amendment does not change the status of any other state, city or town veteran employee as to a right to hearing.

Questions

1. If a batsman, after missing the third strike, starts for his bench believing the ball has been caught, and then discovers that the ball has gotten away from the catcher, has he a right to make an attempt to reach first base, or is he out for running out of the line?

2. Explain what is meant by a force out.

3. Has the catcher the right to knock off the base runner at the plate?

Answers

1. The batsman has such a right, unless in running he runs out of line to avoid being touched. When he takes it for granted that the ball has been caught, and instead of immediately starting for the base as he should have, he simply delays his getting there, and makes the distance that much longer.

2. A force out can only be made when a base runner legally loses the right to the base he occupies by reason of the batsman becoming a base runner, and he is thereby forced to vacate.

3. Only provided he has the ball in his possession, ready to touch the runner.

LET YOUR MIND PLAY

There lived in Angeltown, many, many centuries before Mr. Mann and his fellows arrived on this globe, a race of men who spent their days and their nights in forest, mountain and stream. They had to climb, swim, run, jump, etc.

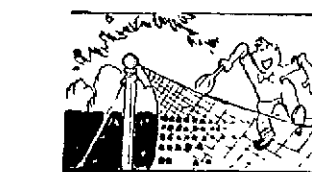

Thus it is that modern man comes quite naturally by his interest in so-called "sports"—contests in which strength and skill are pitted—baseball, skull races, swimming meets, tennis, and the rest.

Now, Mr. Mann, like many people, had never stopped to analyze such contests in the light of mental or psychological exercise.

Yet such they are. As well as being good physical exercise, they afford the mind a chance for quick thinking, and for relaxation from business-made activities. Going the rounds of ordinary affairs our minds are likely to get lopsided, or dulled.

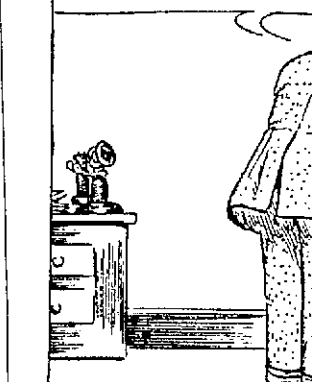

A good out-of-doors game is just the psychological tonic the busy man needs. Walking is fine for the fellow who can't play ball. And don't overlook dancing. It's one of the best of so-called psychological exercises.

THOMAS AUTO SERVICE STATION A WINNER

Although less than two years old and with a name not widely known previously in the automobile business registers of Lowell and suburbs, the Thomas Auto Supply today stands as a fourishing example of the fruits of remarkable ability, planning and hard work of popular young Lowell business man —Fred Thomas—now proprietor of a busy auto supply mart of trade bearing his title at 329 Bridge street, Centralville.

The Thomas Auto Supply is making it very apparent to all automobile owners for miles around, that there is in Centralville an automobile accessory store that is fully equipped to meet every reasonable demand, where quality goods only are distributed and where courteous and prompt treatment is always maintained. Customers requiring large or small wants, are served with equal courtesy and save money at all times at the popular Thomas Auto supply.

Not only is guaranteed service the very best here on Bridge street where the Thomas banners fly, but the stock of equipment is of the latest types, the merchandise distributed including a wide variety of accessories, parts and tires. And prices are always right.
This is central Fred Thomas' unvarying rule in dealing with all customers alike.
Many hundreds of regular patrons have found that out since they began visiting the auto supply store at 329 Bridge street. It has now become the habit to stop and "see Thomas," when motorists want accessories, gas, oil or tips on new paint shades.

The concern handles numerous best quality tires and fabric tires, and all accessories in keeping automobiles in shape for regular use and driving.
Good Gulf gasoline and Good Gulf oils of every weight and requirement, are dispensed at the Bridge street location.

In the tire department, Thomas features the Piska Premier cords—the lowest priced cords chuck full of wear.
The Piska "Red Top" 29x34, are the best in the world for Ford car equipment, as many hundreds of Middlesex county Ford-owners, who secure their selections from friendly Thomas on Bridge street, can testify. These "Red Tops" now sell for an extremely low

Everything in the world of latest and newest automobiles and auto accessories is carried at Thomas' establishment. He is today offering auto-covering specials in the famous Brownes
"Red Oval" motor car enamels for amateur car-painters. It can be applied easily and "anyone can do it."

Thermoid brake linings are new, they are popular already and Thomas does all the work of removing your old automobile brake lining, cleaning up the parts and installing the new "Thermoid" without charge for the work, giving car owners a bill for just the cost of materials. This is only a sample of Thomas service that is attracting wide attention.

TYPEWRITER OFFER A REAL SENSATION
Think of buying a brand new "R."
No. 10 Remington typewriter for $39!
"Can it be done? It certainly can! If you doubt this statement, drop around to the headquarters and sales offices of the Typewriter & Office Equipment company, 64 Central street, room 15, and see for yourself.

This progressive concern, widely known for its well established trade in providing high class office equipments of all kinds, to meet the demands of the most exacting Lowell patronage, has been handling best make typewriters for many years, always only standard selections from the market's best. It has specialized heavily in the Remington lines, superior in their class.
Yes, here, few typewriter concerns could afford to make machines, sturdy built for life-long service throughout, and sell them for much less than one hundred dollars. In the days of the "hundred-dollar machines," the distributing business was not, of course, large, for buyers, desirous to pay so much for something that they then thought was more of a luxury than a utility. But those days are gone.
Standard typewriters today, new or second hand, sell for much lower prices than the old-time price—around one hundred dollars in bygone days and sometimes even more than that. Today standard makes can be purchased at less than half price in many instances.

Just to show curious readers who may be in need of a quality typewriter for home or office use, the Typewriter & Office Equipment company invites one and all to visit Room 15 at 64 Central street and see what is termed "The Sensation of the Typewriter Business."
A late model "R" standard, No. 10, Remington, now being sold to many happy customers for the amazingly low price of $39.

ALWAYS DESIRABLE
To be sure that the floral decorations, for any occasion, "just right" and "exactly what is desired," just send your next order to Mooers' plant and flower shop, at 359 Stevens street, where service and the dispensation of rare floral emblems and cut flowers of every description are paramount.

The quality of the floral productions in all desirable flowers in and out of season, the variety of favorite home floral decorations in the parlors and living, the wonderful list of hot-house blooms in the winter offerings to customers, and then the outdoor natural blooms that come to the Mooers' beautiful sales quarters at 359 Stevens street, in the warmer months, are widely praised by customers. Many patrons wonder how such a vast variety of both the most expensive and the least expensive flowers and accessories can be provided for a growing patronage that demands only the finest and the best.
The Mooers' flower and plant shop, on Stevens street has a satisfied clientele of regular patrons and is also a popular place for casual potted flowers and bouquet purchases, out-of-town patrons who order by letter or by telephone, and also for many patrons of long standing on the Blue's books, who receive many allow away and order the Mooers' prized plant and exclusive flower specialties sent by express.
Visitors are invited to inspect the Mooers' attractive reception headquarters at 359 Stevens street at any time.
Newcomers will be surprised at the wealth of spring flower and plant offerings to be found in all varieties of designs of all kinds to meet every occasion. Savory bouquets and specialty orders in special floral combinations, are promptly filled at all times.
The Mooers' telephone number is 6447.

LOWELL AUTO BODY REPAIR CO. BUSY

This is the season of the year when repairs on the motor cars that were damaged last year and now need renovating before sending to the painters are in order. Lowell Auto Body Repair Company, directed by an able proprietor of long experience in removing dents from auto bodies and fenders, repainting tops, sides, bottoms and fronts and straightening frames or putting in new ones, is today one of the busiest parts of the automobile industry in or near Lowell.

An expert attends to your every want here at any time at the Lowell Auto Body Repair company. Expert service is always guaranteed.
Many of the jobs brought to the shops, located in commodious quarters in a central location of the city at the corner of Pawtucket and Moody streets, are difficult and appear to be damaged beyond repair at first glance, but when M. V. Wahl, the proprietor, and his expert remainder tackle the job, it comes out all right and looks just like new.

The specially work performed industriously and expertly at all times at the Wahl repair shop, has always been high-grade. Most of the repairs are called for by owners of high-grade and expensive cars. The Wahl firm does not cater extensively to work on the small cheaper-priced automobiles, as owners rarely want to spend much money on a car that is not costly. Besides, damages on some of the cars like the Fords, can easily be replaced at small cost by buying new parts.

It is when owners of costly limousines and best-grade touring cars suffer in collisions, with resultant bent or broken fenders, smashed sides, broken windows and frames, fenders or steps twisted and broken, that the anxious owners come post haste, to the Lowell Auto Body Repair Company at the corner of Pawtucket and Moody streets and beseech Wahl to hurry up and get their cars back into shape once more.

The value of a real car is never impaired if the running gear is in good condition, even with damaged bodies and radiators. It is work on damaged car bodies and fenders, etc., that demands the constant attention, year in and year out, of M. V. Wahl and his excellent repairmen.

That is why most folks who own standard, high-class motor cars, go to the Lowell Auto Body Repairing Company, Moody and Pawtucket streets, when they want repairs made and made right. The Wahl telephone number is 1681. And lowest prices rule always.

HIGH-CLASS WORK IN AUTOMOBILE PAINTING

If your last season's motor car is in good shape still and you don't want to part with it, though it is looking a little sooty in respect to paint and varnish, call on Joseph Leclerc, expert auto and carriage painter, at the corner of Moody and Pawtucket streets, and ask him about the prospects for refurbishing that car so it will appear like new.

The Leclerc establishment, conveniently located in large quarters of easy accessibility, over the Moody bridge garage, is one of the most widely known in the city and towns around. Also, motor car owners bring or send their cars from distances a good many miles away, week in and week out. There are Leclerc customers living as far away as Worcester, Boston, Woburn, Lawrence and Concord.

Joseph Leclerc has had 29 years' experience in all kinds of carriage and automobile painting. He specializes, of course, on motor car painting and finishing. Thousands of satisfied customers can testify to his high quality and his very reasonable charges. Estimates are given freely on any automobile painting and finishing jobs.

The Moody and Pawtucket street mart of the auto painters' trades has many special job work prices for different cars. For instance, Leclerc offers to paint and finish any Ford car in three days for the small price of $20 and the job must be done just as well as if it were done on a high-priced limousine. The fact that the Ford is a smaller body car and that it is easier to "cover" is the reason for this $20 price for a "Done in three-days-and-dry" job, that is attracting the attention of Ford car owners by its surprisingly low price for high-class work.

Mr. Leclerc was for 12 years employed by the Sawyer Carriage shops where his experience in handling the paint brush and oils and the finishing materials, won him wide renown.
The Moody street painter is in every respect a first-class man at his line of work and his big shop is constantly filled with automobiles of all sizes and grades waiting to receive their spring coats of paint and varnish. The proprietor's slogan has always been, "My customers are my best advertisers."

ACCESSORY SHOP IN HANDY PLACE

All motor car drivers know where the Merrimack Auto Supply company is located, that is, motorists who want real service in the matter of tires, tubes, vulcanizing and accessories.
Harry J. Roche is the alert manager and a very able man in the automobile business, with long experience in dealing with motor car parts of every description from pistons and piston rings to wrist pins and the heavy machine parts.

Quality service is rendered by Manager Roche and his experts invariably.
The spacious quarters at 139 East Merrimack street serve adequately at all times the best interests of visiting motor car owners who are in trouble.
There is extended prompt service, courteous service, lasting service, day and night.

The quality of the workmanship is evidenced by the excellence of the equipment and parts provided at the Merrimack Auto Supply company regularly. There are many aids. Thus where special accessories are in demand always in stock, as well. All makes of motor cars can be attended to promptly, whether it be auto tires or piston rings. Quality gasoline and all the popular oils are also found here at Manager Roche's established mart of trade. Strict integrity is the rule in all business transactions. A visit to 139 East Merrimack street will show your car needs adjusting and anything in the line of new running parts, will not be in vain.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 21

Jack immediately stuck out his hand and the glove took hold of it. After a hearty shake the glove released its hold and swung out of Jack's way. As Jack started on he heard Flip bark and, looking back, he saw that another glove was patting Flip on the back and rubbing his nose.

"I won't hurt you," said the little adventurer. And then the rubber glove tickled Flip in the side and the dog jumped out of the way in a hurry. Jack then continued on his way. After a short time he heard the tube faintly say, "Put some more air in me. I'm getting flat."

Jack glanced down at the tube and, sure enough, almost all of the air had leaked out. Jack immediately put the valve into his mouth and started to blow. The tube filled up slowly but when Jack quit blowing it would go right down again. "There's a leak in me," said the tube. (Continued.)

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR MARIE CORELLI DEAD

Hon. George Henri Boivin, Was Distinguished English
B. A., Guest and Speaker Novelist and Author of at K. of C. Luncheon Many Romantic Tales

Members of Lowell council 73, Knights of Columbus, will tonight entertain a distinguished visitor in the person of Honorable George Henri Boivin, B.A., of Granby, Que., who will be the principal speaker at a luncheon and entertainment in the council rooms, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Born in Sheffield county, Que., December 26, 1852, of Irish-Canadian parentage, Mr. Boivin attended schools in Granby and received the B.A. degree from Monroville college, Marquette, and Laval university in 1902. He entered the legal profession and was admitted to the bar of Quebec in 1907. In October of that year, he was made crown prosecutor in the district of Bedford and was barrister of the bar in that district from 1917 to the present year.

In 1911, Mr. Boivin was elected to the house of commons, representing Bedford in the liberal interests. In 1918, he was elected deputy speaker of the house of commons.

Besides his political affiliations, Mr. Boivin is a supreme director of the Knights of Columbus and a knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory. He is married and has two sons and one daughter.

In his talk here this evening, the guest will take as his subject: "International Goodwill." An elaborate program has been prepared by the following committee: Grand Knight Frank A. Groves, Lecturer Edward F. Slatery, Jr., Fred Lamoureux, Joseph Desrosiers and Frank Ricard.

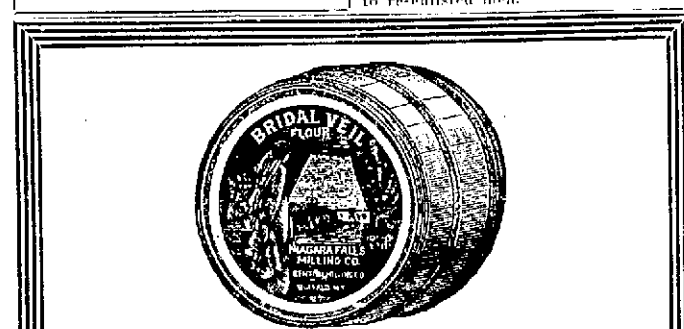

The affair will be open to council members only. In anticipation of a capacity audience, extra seats will be placed in the assembly hall.

JOSEPH JARRETT'S FINES TOTAL $175

Joseph A. Jarrett, who was brought back to this city from New York about a week ago on four complaints dating back to August, 1922, was fined a total of $175 in district court this morning. This amount represents $100 for operating an automobile in Tyngsboro while he was under the influence of liquor in 1922, $50 for going away without making himself known after causing injury to property, and $25 for driving in a manner to endanger the lives and safety of the public. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file.

Fifteen aged men, shoulders bent under the weight of years and eyes slightly dimmed, gathered Saturday forenoon in the historical room in Memorial hall and held the annual reunion of the "Old Sixth" Massachusetts regiment on the 62nd anniversary of its historic march through Baltimore.

The 15 gathered together Saturday were all who are able to get about of the 21 survivors of the regiment which made history in '61, when it was first to answer President Lincoln's "Call arms" and the first regular regiment of the northern forces to enter Washington.

At the tables with the veterans were representatives of the Sons and Daughters of the Old Sixth, and Mayor John J. Donovan, former Mayor Perry D. Thompson and Rev. Harold W. Haynes of the First Universalist church. The tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Alvin Joy and favors were furnished by Mrs. Lizzie E. Wether of Portsmouth, N. H., during the dinner and for a short while after orchestral music was furnished through the courtesy of the Lowell Musician's union.

Following the dinner, Mr. Derby acted as toastmaster, and presented to each veteran present, on behalf of the Sons of Veterans, a beautiful cane. He then called upon Rev. Mr. Haynes to give the blessing. Both Mayor Donovan and former Mayor Thompson, as well as several veterans were called upon to address the meeting, and each spoke informally to the glory of the Old Sixth and the honors that have accrued to it in the past. An entertainment program followed with Mrs. Nettie L. Roberts, Miss Edna Thompson and Miss Brennan entertaining with solo numbers, accompanied by Miss Grace Martin

LOCAL ROTARIANS WILL GO TO WORCESTER COUNTY COMMISSIONERS GIVE HEARINGS

Sunny fraternal roads in the thirty-first Rotary district lead to Worcester this week. Lowell Rotary will have a representation of four prominent members, who will take important parts in the deliberations, entertainments, election of officers and 1924 program of work.

The Lowell Rotarians on the official visitation list are: President Arthur C. Spalding, Past President Dr. Herbert E. Davis, Secretary F. Leroy Panchert and W. Blake Irvine. The president and secretary are regularly elected delegates.

A few of the many great attractions offered to the first gathering of the Rotarian clubs today for the Tuesday opening ceremonies, are Everett W. Hill of Oklahoma City, Okla., first vice president of Rotary International; Daniel P. Sullivan, governor of the thirty-first district; Hon. Michael J. O'Hara, mayor of Worcester; Hon. Edwin O. Childs, mayor of Newton; John F. Tinsley, president of Worcester chamber of commerce; Henry S. Dennison, of Framingham; Capt. Irving O'Hay, a recent visitor to Lowell, and Dr. Tehy Hsieh, sometimes called "The Roosevelt of China."

There are to be two big Rotarian luncheons. Headquarters are at Hancock hotel, Worcester, and business sessions will be held at the hotel and also in Mechanics and Washburn halls. Lowell Rotarians are the hosts. Lowell delegates will take part in numerous important conferences affecting Rotary, as well as participating in all the jubilation schedules. Tomorrow morning comes the district conference opening session, with addresses by Rotary leaders. Luncheon follows at noon and inspirational addresses are scheduled for afternoon rally, with mayors leading the list of speakers. The banquet will be held at 6:30 in Mechanics hall. From 10:05 p. m. "until morning" the program says there will be a "jubilee of melody and mirth."

Wednesday morning brings a "round table breakfast," a program feature, when members will offer suggestions for the welfare of Rotary in general and consider informally plans for Rotary betterment works. The business session of the conference and addresses come at 2 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon. Balloting for district governor is also scheduled for Wednesday.

Lowell delegates are greatly interested in the conference on boys' work that is to be held in separate session from the main conference. Presidents and secretaries only will take part in this important discussion that is expected to reconstruct and revitalize future programs adopted for the expansion of work among youth.

Impressive Funeral Services This Morning for Well Known Local Physician

With impressive religious and military formalities, the funeral of Dr. Francis O'Sullivan, widely known local physician, took place at 9:30 o'clock this morning from his late home, 105 St. Washington street, the large funeral cortege proceeding to St. Patrick's church where at 10 o'clock, a solemn high requiem mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C., assisted by Rev. Thomas J. McDonough as deacon, and Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., as sub-deacon.

Seated within the sanctuary during the ceremonies were Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., pastor of the Sacred Heart church; Rev. William F. Mahan, American Legion; Rev. Charles Sullivan, D.C., of St. Andrew's church, North Billerica; Rev. John C. Duffy, O.M.I., of the Immaculate Conception church; Rev. Albert L. McDonnell, O.M.I., of the Sacred Heart church, and Rev. Joseph A. Curtin of St. Patrick's.

During the mass, an augmented choir, under the direction of Orkanter Sarah J. Murray, rendered appropriate music. The choir in the mass were sustained by Miss Frances Fitch, Daniel S. O'Brien, John E. Sullivan, "Domini Jesu Christ," was impressively rendered by Edward P. Slattery, Jr., while Timothy Finnegan sustained the solo in "De Profundis" as the body was being borne from the church.

The bearers of the flag-draped casket were the following legionnaires: Dr. William M. Collins, Dr. Joseph P. Kearney, Dr. Raymond O. Gendreau, Dr. Robert L. Jones, Dr. Patrick J. Meahan and Dr. William F. Ryan, all in uniform.

The ushers at the house and church, also members of Lowell Post, 37, American Legion, were John F. Salmon, Winfred C. MacFarlane, James H. Gilbride, Charles H. Slattery, Daniel E. Martin, and John H. Valentine. The color guards were George Walsh, William McShen, Joseph Farrell, Wilfred Bouvier, and Buckler Alfred Harrois.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion was represented by Mrs. Winifred Birk, Mrs. Mary Connors.

FOR STRENGTH AFTER SERIOUS ILLNESS

TAKE FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

When you have finally started on the road to recovery, after a slope of sickness, proper care and nourishment are of great importance.

Your body tissue has become weakened during your illness and it must go through a gradual strengthening and building up process before you can regain your health.

For this body-building purpose practically all doctors recommend a food tonic. Because of its great value for both old and young, Father John's Medicine is often the tonic prescribed. Doctors know that it is composed of only the purest, health-building elements.

Father John's Medicine is a whole-some food medicine and is easy to digest. Little children as well as older people grow healthy and strong while taking this pure, reconstructive food tonic. Over 58 years of success.

LAND DAMAGE CASE AGAINST CITY REPORT FILED IN SUPERIOR COURT

Middlesex Street Property Owner Seeks More Money Than City Paid Her for Land Seized for Park Purposes in August, 1922

An action whereby Mrs. Frieda Namay of this city seeks an assessment of damages in connection with a piece of land owned by her in Middlesex street adjacent to Washington park and seized by the city in 1922, was tried in superior court here today before Judge Richard W. Irwin and a jury. The city as defendant was represented by Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds, with Attorney William D. Regan for the plaintiff.

It was brought on in the course of the trial that the city seized the land for the assessed valuation of 70 cents per foot, or a gross amount of $1200.

Albert J. Ryan, real estate dealer and architect, qualified as an expert witness for the plaintiff and testified that the land in question was worth $1.55 per foot at the time of taking. Raymond Humphrey, real estate broker, also qualifying as an expert, testified for the defendant that the land was worth between 55 and 60 cents per foot.

Mrs. Namay testified she paid $1500 for the land and felt it had a value at the time of seizure of about $3500. Michael C. Brennan, builder, was another witness for the city.

The land in question was taken by the city for the purpose of adding more space to the Washington playground area and the city attempted to show that the nature and contour of the land was not fitted for use except for the erection of a one-story building for store purposes. Mr. Ryan testified that a three-story block could be erected upon it, housing two stores and four apartments.

The case was given to the jury just before the noon recess.

The next case on the trial list is a charge of tort brought by Mary A. Clifford of Cambridge, against the Boston Elevated Railway Co. The ad damnum is $10,000.

A jury reported a verdict for the defendant this forenoon in the tort case brought by Frank S. Fisher of Cambridge, against Charles Kitchen of Lawrence, which went to trial last Friday.

Mrs. Namay testified she paid $1500

Forty-three Men Arraigned Before Judge Enright on Drunkenness Charges

The names of 43 men charged with drunkenness were listed on the district court blotter this morning and when Judge Enright was made aware of this situation, he exclaimed: "Talk about prohibition! In the olden days, conditions were not any worse than this."

The judge also made a threat to rid the city of so-called "sidewalk hipsters" and other dispensers of liquid refreshments.

The first case called this morning was that involving Isidore Domrowski. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was sentenced to three months.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Speaker Gillett appeared at the Daugherty committee hearing today and questioned H. L. "Where did you get your information?" the speaker asked.

"Most of it came from Mr. Woodruff," said Scalfie.

Detailed Budget Estimates to Be Submitted Friday—Big Reductions

DUBLIN, April 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Economies totalling $13,877,928 are provided in the detailed budget estimates to be submitted in the Dail Eireann when it reassembles next Friday.

Of this sum $7,220,216 is cut from the army estimates partly due to the demobilization, partly by drastic reductions in the payroll and partly by pruning the allowances to the wives and dependents of soldiers. Education will receive $3,000,000 less, and the old age pensions are reduced by $257,500.

For property losses caused by damage during the fighting it is proposed to spend this year more than $3,000,000 less than last year.

TO BAR FIERY CROSS DEMONSTRATIONS

FITCHBURG, April 21.—The first prosecution in connection with fiery cross demonstrations is threatened by Fitchburg police, who declare that the stunt first executed on Rollstone Hill last July constitutes a violation of a city ordinance prohibiting the setting off of fireworks without a permit.

The police here believe that the demonstration Saturday night, the fourth in Fitchburg, was the work of "an organized secret society."

Four Fitchburg persons, two young men and two girls, were caught in the act of setting off a fiery cross July 31. It became known today and the methods and materials used at that time, were virtually the same as those employed here and elsewhere in the state recently. The police are following up a clue which they believe may result in arrests for violation of the municipal ordinance.

TRIAL OF GOV. M'GRAY OPENS TODAY

"GENTLE JULIA"—WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

The large body of readers who have enjoyed Booth Tarkington's delightful story, "Gentle Julia," will all vote it perfect in character drawing and in the penetrating humor with which its incidents are developed. But there is one question that may be pretty generally asked: Does the screen version follow closely the plot of the original? The answer to this is: Yes, except that enough dramatic situations have been added to give the story true play construction and the incidents of the novel have received the necessary "high-lighting" demanded by all properly made motion pictures. The most radical departure from the novel is the ending. Mr. Tarkington's way of arranging it was characteristically whimsical, but the screen finish will be found to be to the taste of the average motion picture patron. The title role is played by Bessie Love. She portrays the part of a small town belle who has won every youth of her acquaintance. Too soft-hearted to turn them down with brutal frankness, she is more cruel, unconsciously, in being kind to each and every one. Then along comes a breezy man from Chicago and Julia herself in love. But she discovers, much to her sorrow, that he is a married man, interested only in a business deal with her father. Her old sweetheart, Noble Dill, played by Harold Goodwin, has given up hope and is just about to leave town for adventures in the unknown when she comes home. After that of course, Julia awakens to facts and takes Noble for what he is—her real lover.

The added feature which also opens today is "The Rip Tide," a strong mystery drama with a big star cast that includes Stuart Holmes, Rosemary Theby, J. Frank Glendon, Dick Sutherland and Russell Simpson. It deals with a deep subject and with Stuart Holmes in the leading character role. It is sure to be a picture that is worth while seeing.

And don't forget that the somewhat rotund Sam Cohen will bring down his riotous amateurs on Tuesday night. Sam himself is present and acts as official announcer. It's a riot all by himself. Ask anyone who has seen him. If the amateurs aren't funny enough for you—Sam is—so you can't go wrong. The prices remain the same on amateur night.

FEATURE AT STRAND NOW PLAYING

When the name of Norma Talmadge is mentioned, one immediately associates it with something unusual and interesting in the motion picture life. When the Strand management recently announced the coming of one of Miss Talmadge's newest First National pictures, there was unanimous approval and unqualified assurance on all sides that something exceptional and entertaining was in store for them. "The Song of Love," with Miss Talmadge in the role of an Arabian dancing girl, assisted by Joseph Schildkraut, one of Broadway's most recent matinee idols, made of "The Song of Love" a picture story and production that ranks with the very best of its kind filmed. You will love and admire Norma's artistry of a new brand in this offering. Don't miss it.

Then there is Laura La Plante in "Excitement," a picture story that is just what the title indicates. You get thrills aplenty, but also a delightful love romance and some good humor. Miss La Plante is assisted by excellent cast. In addition to the above features of genuine merit, there will be a comedy and weekly issue that gives one a glimpse of events of the recent past. The musical numbers by Leo Botencourt and Al Forest are always enjoyable.

MERRIMACK SQUARE

It isn't often you can get a volcano to work when you want it to, but Henry King, the director of "The White Sister," starring Lillian Gish, which is being shown at the Merrimack Square theatre, was able to photograph a violent eruption of Mt. Vesuvius just in time for the final scenes of the picture. Crawford story, which call for exactly the kind of an explosion that happened. Lowell movie lovers get an extra thrill out of knowing that the exploding crater and the lava are real and that Miss Gish, Mr. King and the rest of the company were right on the spot.

MECHANISM OR SOUL

AT THE B. F. KEITH THEATRE ALL THIS WEEK

The present week at the B. F. Keith theatre is N.V.A. week—the week devoted to the National Vaudeville Association. And with this idea in view the acts have been specially chosen. It is doubtful if one of the turns which will be presented has ever been seen before. There are the Four Rubini sisters—musicians of high grade—who have been specially coached by their brother, Jan Rubini, a noted violinist. The Rubinis play the piano, violin, flute and cello. Then there are King and Irwin in "Coon Town Divorcement," which is hailed as a colored classic. Others on this splendid bill are Miss Teria, a foreign act which will puzzle the most thoughtful of spectators; Ed. Lowrey, the diminutive comedian who will give his own conception of "Still Smiling"; Larry Meehan and Gertrude Newman in singing, dancing and a talk fest; and George Downey and Gertrude Claridge in singing, dancing, cycle-riding and roller skating. The week's picture feature is "Innocence," presented by Anna Q. Nilsson and a great cast.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Thomas H. Elliott

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate and general insurance reports the following sales negotiated through this office during the past week:

In the Belvidere section sale has been effected of one of the highest-grade apartment properties in this entire portion of Lowell. The house is of the semi-detached type and is situated at 61-65 Clithorne street, near its junction with Newhall street. Each division of the property has nine rooms, equipped with the most modern of appointments throughout. The land conveyed totals 5883 square feet, and carries an assessment at the rate of 20 cents per foot. The transfer is negotiated on behalf of Harvey B. Greene, Prop., of the Highlands conservatories.

Final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of a residential parcel at 683 Broadway. The house is of two story type, and contains seven rooms. The land involved totals 3435 square feet, carrying an assessment at the rate of 25 cents per foot. This parcel is sold on behalf of Timothy H. Reardon, who has held it for many years past for investment purposes. The grantees are James F. and Daniel J. Cunningham.

Also the sale of modern property at 821 Concord street. The house is of semi-bungalow design, with eight rooms and bath. It is of comparatively recent construction, and modern to the last detail. Conveyance is made on behalf of the resident owner, Henry Giddis, the grantee being Charles H. Breese who buys for purposes of investment.

In the Middlesex Village section conveyance has been effected of the large residence at 1732 Middlesex street, directly at its junction with Wood street. The house is of square colonial type with nine rooms and bath, and is surrounded by attractive grounds. The sale is negotiated on behalf of the resident owner, Grace M. McKinnon, the purchaser being Dorcas G. Marshall, who buys for investment purposes.

Sales by E. F. Slattery, Jr.

Edward F. Slattery, Jr., real estate and insurance, reports the following sales made through his office during the past week:

The sale of the property situated at 94 Manchester street. This property consists of a cottage house of seven rooms, together with barn and carriage sheds. About 12,000 square feet of land accompanies the house. The sale was made in behalf of Patrick Furell and the purchasers are John J. Hayden and Mary Hayden, who buy for a home.

Also the sale of the splendid two-tenement house and garage situated at 491-493 Stevens street, Highlands. Each apartment contains six rooms and is equipped with all modern conveniences, also a garage that accommodates three machines. About 6000 square feet of land are contained in the deed. James Loughlin conveys title to Samuel Feinstein and Michael Soroken of Boston.

Final papers have been placed on record at the court house for the purchase and sale of the property situated at 694 Clithorne street. This transaction includes a residence of nine rooms, equipped with all modern conveniences, together with 7000 square feet of land. Harry Erickson and Alva E. Erickson convey title to Frederick A. Conley.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home-simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

No more Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Alkali In Soap
Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps are prepared with a caustic alkali, which dries the scalp makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and harmless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse your hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply add water to the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store; it is inexpensive and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Adv.

TROUBLE ENDED WHEN "TROUBLE" CAME

The four-legged hero of the south today is, strangely enough, named "Trouble." The faithful 3-year-old collie saved the lives of Virginia Hastings (shown with him in the picture) and Harvey Alexander, aged 4, when the two children were attacked by vicious hogs on the Hastings farm near Jonesboro, Ga. The swine had chewed an ear from the Alexander child and were menacing the little girl when the dog hero arrived and drove them off.

Ask Liggett's, Green's Drug Store, A. W. Howe, Fred Howard, or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. They are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinnier men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good, healthy flesh, and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds or over in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on five pounds in 30 days. Great for weak, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite—60 tablets, 60 cents. EASTER MONDAY SOCIAL

Tonight, Silas Mills Athletic Association members are to hold their annual Easter Monday social and dancing party in the mill's recreation hall. Dancing will continue until 1 a. m. tomorrow morning, and a North Chelmsford orchestra will play. Extra street car service will be provided for members and guests who live out of town.

FIRE IN GARAGE

Fire of unknown origin starting in a garage on the "old road" at the end of Hildreth street, called out Dracut firemen at 2:30 o'clock, yesterday morning. Only a part of the garage roof was damaged, the firemen getting streams of chemicals on the blaze promptly. There were no machines in the garage when the fire broke out.

REMOVING GLUE

Household vinegar will remove old glue from furniture.

INSIST! Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for 24 years.

"DO HURRY," THE FROG KEPT SAYING.

Nancy and Nick started back to Doofunny Land, taking the green frog with them.

"Do hurry," the frog kept saying, looking back nervously toward the pond to see if the brown mink was following. "Do you think the fairy will be gone?"

"I think not," said Nancy. "She would wait to see how you liked your self."

When they arrived, there were Mister Fuzz Wuzz and Silver Wings and everybody was waiting anxiously to see what had happened.

"Well, did you like it?" asked Silver Wings when she spied the little green fellow in Nick's hand.

"No, I didn't," said the frog. "An enormous beast was after me and I hear that is usually the end of all real frogs. I'd rather be made of cotton and never and last a while longer."

"That's the way with me," squeaked the little tin mouse. "In Doofunny Land I have only the patent-leather cat and the stocking kitten to fear, and neither of them are very fast runners."

"And you know how much chance bunnies have!" declared the cotton rabbit, flapping his long, lumber ears.

"The only thing is," quacked the duck, "we all miss the children. What will we do when the Twins go home?"

Suddenly the little fairy had an idea. "I know what I'll do!" she cried.

"What do you say if I fix each of you up like new, and then take you to the house of children who haven't many toys?"

Instantly there were so many voices all yelling at once that the fairy had put her hands over her ears.

"All right! All right!" she laughed. "But remember you won't stay new long. You'll lose ears and tails and get dinged and lose your paint and be left out in the rain and everything. It's always that way when kiddies play with toys."

"We don't care. We don't care!" sang all the Doofunny Landers.

"Please do hurry," croaked the little frog. "You haven't changed me back yet and the mink may come any minute."

"I'll begin on you," said Silver Wings, waving her wand.

Instantly the little shivering frog changed back into a puffy, cotton frog with tissue-paper skin. He looked very happy.

Then one by one she changed all the toys, and made them like new, except the Out-Outs. They were so old-fashioned that they needed a new set of clothes altogether.

The Twins helped Silver Wings to take the toys to their new homes.

As for Mister Fuzz Wuzz, the pipe-cleaner man, he wanted to go back to his old home and live with his master, who made him.

The healthy look that DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Gives is Nature's Own

Ladies! This Beats Cosmetics

GOOD health cannot be camouflaged by powder and rouge. The eyes will tell. That sparkle and clearness that denote good health will not be there if you are constipated. Mrs. Clara Proctor of Pottersville, Mich., had been told by doctors she had this and that disease, and one advised an operation. But she knew she had been constipated all her life so first tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. She avoided the operation and now feels better than she ever did. Likewise Mrs. William Appleton of Eddington, Pa., who was badly constipated and now looks her best again after using Syrup Pepsin.

Pepsin is then tablets, powders or pills, and without shock to the system.

Safe Family Laxative Use it regularly a day before and a day after the periods. The gentle emptying of the bowels will give you relief, and lessen headaches and congestion. Take a spoonful at bed-time and see how much better you feel in the morning. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics, and entirely safe not only for you but for the youngest child. Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the home for you or some other member of the family may need it any moment to relieve constipation, to break up fevers and colds, to clear up biliousness, indigestion, a pimple, a fever sore and other disturbances that show constipation.

On Sale for 30 Years Intelligent women are realizing that health and mere outward complexion are two different things, and more and more are taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Over 10 million bottles were bought in drug stores last year, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Go to your druggist and buy a bottle. The cost is less than a cent a dose. You will see how much more effective a spoonful of Syrup is than tablets, powders or pills, and without shock to the system.

U. S. Waging Costly Fight Against Return of Ravaging Foot-and-Mouth Disease

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—By quick, decisive action, the U. S. department of agriculture has taken in hand a recurrence of the foot-and-mouth disease which had not been threatening the livestock of this country since its devastating appearance in 1911.

This year the dread visitor was practically expected. And, being expected, it had scarcely shown its symptoms here when government authorities were upon it. As a result, the disease that has caused the loss of thousands of head of cattle and other livestock in previous years, is now practically under complete control, infected animals are quarantined and rigid guard is kept against exportation of any stock from the confined areas.

California is the only state in which this disease has succeeded in gaining headway, although reports of its symptoms have come from nearby states and close inspection of livestock is being made elsewhere. But less than three weeks after the outbreak was first reported in the region of Oakland, Calif., government veterinary inspectors had all known infected herds under ground.

Well Guarded
Despite this optimistic report, however, shipments of other livestock were made to Los Angeles and other parts of California, with the result that further quarantine had to be placed on new areas. According to Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of entomology in Washington, who is leading the fight against the spread of this disease, the situation is well under control.

"The foot-and-mouth disease," explained Dr. Mohler, "seems to recur every six or ten years. Its last occurrence in 1914 resulted in a loss of 172,000 animals, mostly in mid-western and eastern states, at a cost to the government and farmers of about $3,000,000. This year, we have already eaten into the greater part of our appropriation of $1,000,000 and the $270,000 left over to fight the disease.

Figures as to the number of animals killed to stop the spread of the disease this year have not yet been compiled, but the first three weeks of eradication brought the slaughter up to more than 12,000 animals, consisting mostly of cattle and swine.

Quick Start
In February of this year, it is Dr. Mohler's opinion, indications of the start of this disease near Oakland, Calif., led to a transport returning from the orient.

Within three weeks it had jumped into the range country where large stocks of cattle had to be killed. Little squads have slaughtered whole herds, where only one animal might have been infected, to be sure the disease could not have spread. Long trenches have been dug, where these animals have been driven to their deaths and covered with lime and soil. Farmers have been reimbursed for their losses, and the government, in co-operation with California, has stood the loss.

Warning to Farmers
Now with the disease fairly well controlled, Dr. Mohler issues the following warning to farmers, not only in the west but throughout the country:

"All livestock where infection is suspected, must be closely confined. Dogs must not be allowed to run at large.

"No milk, hay, feed or manure is to be removed from the farm. The farmer and his family should refrain from visiting other farms. Do not permit any visitors, stray livestock or dogs to come upon your premises.

"Expedite in every way possible the slaughter and burial of infected animals.

"The early cleaning and disinfection of your premises are highly important."

ARE CROWS BLACK AS THEY ARE PAINTED?

We have always contended that crows were black in color and black in character. Volcanoes have been written about the depredations of this bird. Every farmer hates him. Every sportsman should, and we believe that most of them do.

Now comes the United States department of agriculture with a news release headed "Crows Not So Black As They Are Painted." This article defends the crow and makes the claim that a careful study of the economic status of this bird demonstrates that over much of his range he does as much good as harm.

We do not know a single argument in favor of the crow; therefore we must plead ignorance. For all we know, the crow may eat such quantities of noxious insects that he is easily worth more to the farmer than the many smaller insect-eating birds which he destroys. We would hate, however, to argue in his favor with some farmer who had just finished replanting a field of corn which had been pulled by crows.

Among sportsmen the crow is classed as vermin. We do know a great deal about his activities as such and pronounce him the worst egg thief and murderer of fledglings with which our wild bird life has to contend. We have watched crows beating back and forth across prairies, systematically hunting out the nests of every prairie chicken and wild duck and gorging themselves on the eggs until their bills and heads were yellow from the yolks.

In the spring of the year, when song and insectivorous birds are nesting, you do not hear the cawing of crows so common at other seasons. If you look carefully you will see, instead, this black thief slipping from orchard tree to orchard tree. Quietly, without a sound, he searches each and robs every nest of its contents. In defense of his egg-eating propensities the following paragraph is quoted from the release mentioned above.

"The number of eggs of other birds reported to have been found under crow nests also has been emphasized. Under a right interpretation, this evidence will have a less serious meaning, so far as other bird life is concerned. Scientists state that breeding birds readily replenish losses due to egg destruction, and under the conditions described the production of two or more sets of eggs before a brood is brought forth is doubtless the regular occurrence."

We leave the evidence with a jury of our peers. Should splendid birds, like our pinnated and sharp-tailed crows will stop with the first clutch? grouse and our wild waterfowl, be compelled to lay a second clutch of eggs in order that the crow may be well fed? Is there any guarantee the

he destroys. We would hate, however, to argue in his favor with some farmer who had just finished replanting a field of corn which had been pulled by crows.

Among sportsmen the crow is classed as vermin. We do know a great deal about his activities as such and pronounce him the worst egg thief and murderer of fledglings with which our wild bird life has to contend. We have watched crows beating back and forth across prairies, systematically hunting out the nests of every prairie chicken and wild duck and gorging themselves on the eggs until their bills and heads were yellow from the yolks.

In the spring of the year, when song and insectivorous birds are nesting, you do not hear the cawing of crows so common at other seasons. If you look carefully you will see, instead, this black thief slipping from orchard tree to orchard tree. Quietly, without a sound, he searches each and robs every nest of its contents. In defense of his egg-eating propensities the following paragraph is quoted from the release mentioned above.

"The number of eggs of other birds reported to have been found under crow nests also has been emphasized. Under a right interpretation, this evidence will have a less serious meaning, so far as other bird life is concerned. Scientists state that breeding birds readily replenish losses due to egg destruction, and under the conditions described the production of two or more sets of eggs before a brood is brought forth is doubtless the regular occurrence."

We leave the evidence with a jury of our peers. Should splendid birds, like our pinnated and sharp-tailed crows will stop with the first clutch? grouse and our wild waterfowl, be compelled to lay a second clutch of eggs in order that the crow may be well fed? Is there any guarantee the

LABOR GOVERNMENT DOING ITS BEST

YORK, England, April 21.—(By the Associated Press)—Prime Minister MacDonald told the independent labor party conference today that the labor government was doing its best but would not necessarily always come up to the expectations of his party. Mr. MacDonald said he did not know how long the labor cabinet was going to be in office. "And I don't very much care," he added, "so long as we do good work. We are helping the world to a new frame of mind, and getting people to see that a different viewpoint may be to their benefit, and so long as we do that we are perfectly willing to go on."

TWO DEPUTIES STABBED IN BAGDAD

BAGDAD, April 21.—Two deputies, known to favor ratification of the treaty between Great Britain and the Kingdom of Iraq, were stabbed and seriously wounded while in the street yesterday. The political situation, intensified by the emotionalism connected with the Ramadan festival, is rapidly approaching a crisis. The agitation against ratification of the treaty centers chiefly on the argument that Great Britain, in the pact fails to guarantee that the vilayet of Mosul will not be surrendered to Turkey.

HENRY FORD UNABLE TO TESTIFY

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Francis R. Weller, a consulting engineer, interested in the Hooker-White-Atterbury proposal for the operation of Muscle Shoals, told the senate agriculture committee today that under that bid the government would receive in 56 years a total net income of $303,163,700 as compared with $90,998,300 from the Ford proposal and $136,100,000 from the Associated Power Companies. During examination of Weller, Henry Ford informed the committee it would be impossible for him to appear to explain his bid but that W. B. Mayo, his chief engineer, would testify.

EXCELLENT CONCERT AT NOT. ONE IN HUNDRED THE AUDITORIUM KEPT INSURANCE

Miss Sophie Braslau of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Mr. Allen McQuibbe, Irish-American tenor, rendered a most pleasing, diversified concert at the Memorial Auditorium last evening, under the auspices of the Lowell Notre Dame Alumnae association.

Mr. McQuibbe was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his opening number, "Where'er You Walk," by Handel. His charming tenor voice was displayed to advantage in the interpretation of Handel's "Ombra mai fu," from "Orfeo."

Miss Braslau opened her recital with "The Farewell Elegance," by Schubert. Her ability as a soprano was cleverly portrayed in her rendition of Donizetti's "Brindisi," a charming selection with more difficult passages.

Miss Braslau's interpretation of numerous Russian airs, was most appealing, her selection, "On the Dnieper," by Moussorgsky receiving warm applause from the audience.

Mr. McQuibbe, in his rendition of the better known Irish songs, including "A Ballynure Ballad," "Norah O'Neill," and "Molly Brannigan," won pronounced applause.

As an encore, Miss Braslau gave the ever popular, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," while at another time she rendered "God Bless You My Dear," the latter number bringing rounds of sincere applause.

Mr. McQuibbe was also most generous in his encores, and he interpreted numerous Irish songs, which were much appreciated by the audience.

"Where'er You Walk," Seene G. F. Handel
"Ombra mai fu," Xerxes, G. F. Handel
Mr. McQuibbe

"The fare senza l'uride," from Orfeo
"The Farewell Elegance," by Schubert
Miss Braslau

"Brindisi," from L'ucresia Borgia

JOSEF HOFFMANN GUEST AT YORICK CLUB

Josef Hoffmann, internationally known as a pianist, but who has coupled with his art a most unusual bent for mechanics and an inventive genius, again was a Lowell visitor on Friday, when he came to the city as the guest of John A. Stevens, civil engineer and was entertained by him at the Yorick club at a buffet luncheon. Several scores of many of Lowell's best known citizens accepted invitations to

The reason for Mr. Hoffmann's two visits to Lowell within a month is that Mr. Stevens is interested with him in the development and manufacture of an improved shock absorber of the pianist's invention, several sets of which already have found local sale. Mr. Hoffmann seldom talks of musical matters and only when directly questioned concerning his concert tours and his art in general. He is bubbling over with mechanics and in this respect differs most pronouncedly from any of his fellow artists. He is an engaging conversationalist and Friday evening was most entertaining in recitals of his world-wide travels.

Mr. Stevens was a splendid host and those privileged to attend the luncheon found it a most congenial occasion and fully appreciated the chance given to rub elbows with one of the world's greatest piano masters, who at the same time, has a strong penchant for thinking out and solving highly technical problems that require real engineering skill.

PREPARING FOR FOURTH DEGREE WORK

As the days go by and the data of the fourth degree K. of C. exemplification draws near, there appears to be unusual activity exerted here by members of Bishop Delany assembly. Several sub-committees of importance have been busy over the week-end and interesting reports of their activities will be presented at the regular meeting of the committee tomorrow evening.

Sir Knight James E. Donnelly is in charge of the choir and the musical program is expected to be of a high order.

Sir Knight John E. Hart is chairman of the committee on the dinner and is busily engaged in checking up plans with Boston officials. The committee on speakers has covered every place in the state assigned to them. But one engagement remains and that is in Marlboro. The decorations in the Memorial Auditorium on the day of the degree will be of an unusually brilliant nature. State Deputy William C. Trout assured the committee today that he would respond to the toast: "The Order" at the banquet following the degree.

10 KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Engine Runs Wild at Chicago, Crashed Into Auto Killing Four—Other Casualties

LEWISTON, Me., April 21.—A father and two sons were killed, a third son probably fatally injured, and a friend of the family was killed when a through train from Bangor to Boston on the Maine central, due in Lewiston at 4 p. m., struck an automobile in which they were riding at the Fair grounds crossing yesterday afternoon.

The victims, all of Lewiston and married, were:
Adolph Vallee, of 42 Noble street; Edele Vallee, 55 Noble street; Eugene Vallee, 55 Noble street; and Paul Dube of Lincoln street, killed; Roger Vallee, 24 Spruce street, driver of the automobile, probably fatally hurt and now at a local hospital.

Two automobiles were stopped at the crossing waiting for the train, the automatic signal sounding. It is said, when the Vallee car cut by in an attempt to cross ahead of the train.

The engine hit the machine squarely in the rear seat. One of the occupants was hurled 100 feet down the track. The machine was demolished.

A bystander lighting a cigarette threw the match near the gasoline tank of the wrecked machine. Instantly there was an explosion, and flames shot high into the air and later spread rapidly, burning the bodies of two of the victims before they could be removed.

Killed Coming From Church
PORTSMOUTH, R. I., April 21.—Mary Maderis, 13 years old, died at her home here tonight from injuries received yesterday morning when an automobile operated by Mrs. Eugene Daggett of New Bedford struck her as she ran across the street after attending church.

Engine Runs Wild, Kills Four
CHICAGO, April 21.—Four persons were killed, one seriously injured and one escaped unhurt early yesterday, when a Baltimore & Ohio railroad engine ran wild from a roundhouse and crashed into an automobile more than a mile away. Railroad authorities could not give any reason for the sudden start of the engine.

Killed at Cross-Walk
NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 21.—Bertha Silverkitt, 11 years old, was run over and killed at a cross-walk by an automobile operated by Violet Hawkins, according to a report made to the police.

VERY SICK DOG, BUT HE'LL RECOVER

Lowell's very latest dog-poisoning story looked superb for prominent featuring, until the poisoned fish that was found today on a Prudent dump was traced back to the place where it came from.

The owner of a Lowell canine that has a habit of daily visiting the Dracut ash and garbage dumping ground referred to, reported this morning that said canine was very ill. He was sure it had been poisoned. It had all the regular symptoms and a few more besides. The owner's suspicious appeared to be correct, for the canine had been seen to eat a package of rotten fish in a town newspaper and the fish appeared to be diseased. With the canine's habit of eating and drinking on fish, unthinkingly of course, and not being in the habit of taking regular diets on fish decorated with green trimmings, became suddenly ill with gripping pains and other things.

It was a sick dog that begged his master for help. The perplexed canine did his part when he brought the news home with the paria-green slounder in a porous condition betokening extreme decay.

Mr. Dog Owner saw green, then saw red, then grew white with honest awe. Somebody leaving poison around to kill his dog. There was the poisoned fish and all the evidence. The irate citizen promptly phoned Lowell Humane society headquarters.

A hot-foot investigation dispelled the clouds of mystery. It seems that a box of paria green, bought by a neighbor, they were eating the paria green plants the seed sprouts, was stashed by a little child of a kitchen shelf in a nearby home, the box contents breaking on a plate of fish and overspreading the same. The parents of the child wrapped up the fish, paria green threw it in, and carried it to the dump and there it was.

That was how the dog got the fish and the poison. It is stated, however, that the dog will recover.

WEEK-END SHOWERS PLEASED FIREMEN

While the intermittent showers that occurred over the week-end brought sorrow and disappointment to those who had planned extensive auto trips, they were welcomed with exceeding joy by the firemen for the rain put out the brush and grass fires which have kept the firemen on the jump for the past several weeks.

Only three alarms were sounded at the station yesterday, two by telephone and one bell alarm. The first came at 7:15 p. m. by telephone and was for a fire in a house in Fairbury's market, close storage plant. The second, also by telephone, was at 8:55 p. m. and was for a fire in a house on Broadway street, where a tumbler of oil had caught fire from a candle. The third and last was a bell alarm from box 62 at 9:02 o'clock last night and was for a chimney fire at Devlin avenue. The fire damage in each case was slight.

SENIOR DANCE AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

The senior day committee of the high school is conducting the annual senior dance this afternoon in Oxborn hall. The affair started at 2:30 o'clock and will continue until 5:30 o'clock and consists of general dancing under the chaperonage of a number of women faculty members.

The committee in charge of the affair follow: Francis Campbell, Elmer Elliott, Frank Mitholland, James Dacey, Ernest Spencer, Helen R. R. Sullivan, Annabel Perry, Beatrice Breton, Doris Hill and Nettie Rostler.

CONG. KNUTSON AND INJURED BY AUTO

L. M. HALL INDICTED
Driver of Machine That Struck Patrick Gannon Kept on Going

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota and Leroy M. Hall of Washington, arrested on serious charges recently on a Virginia road, were indicted today by an Arlington county, Virginia grand jury.

TO ASSUME CHARGE OF SEWER CONSTRUCTION

Weight was added to rumors at city hall that Thomas F. Garvey is to assume charge of sewer construction work for the city, when Sup't. of Streets Harry P. Doherty this noon intimated that the contemplated change may come this week.

"Mr. Garvey is on the lists as assistant superintendent for sewers," said Mr. Doherty, "and the work is rightfully his duty. He has been doing considerable inside work, and is doing it now. I would not say that the chance will come but it is not likely to be long."

Asked how this would affect Frederick Farnham, assistant city engineer who has been generally regarded as superintendent of sewer construction, Mr. Doherty said that he fails to see where Mr. Farnham will be affected at all.

"Mr. Farnham is in the engineer's department, not in the street department," said Mr. Doherty. "It is a part of his duties to lay lines and do other work of that nature and I assume and expect that he will continue to do so. This will not affect Mr. Farnham in any way. Mr. Garvey under such a change would simply be free to devote more time to sewer work."

POLISH MINISTER TO U. S. RETURNS TO WARSAW

WARSAW, April 21.—Ladislav Tredowski, the Polish minister to the United States, is returning to Warsaw the middle of next month, it is announced. The official explanation is that he is returning on leave but it is unofficially declared he is to be transferred to another post or assigned to the foreign office.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 21.—This was children's day at the White House. From early morning until evening the grounds of the executive mansion were given over to the boys and girls of the capital, bent on participation in the old Easter Monday custom of rolling Easter eggs. President and Mrs. Coolidge planned to join the children for a while and the marine band was ordered by the president to play during the afternoon.

BIDDEFORD MILL TO CLOSE

BIDDEFORD, Me., April 21.—Notices were posted this morning that the plant of the Peppercell Manufacturing Co., producing cotton goods, will be closed from April 26 to May 5. The dull cotton goods market is given as the reason. The shutdown will affect 3800 hands.

AMERICAN RUGBY TEAM WINS

PLYMOUTH, England, April 21.—The American Olympic rugby football team today defeated the Devonport Services 25 points to 3.

FIERY CROSS BURNS AT PLYMOUTH

PLYMOUTH, April 21.—Plymouth, home of the Pilgrims and the cradle of American ideals, was startled Sunday evening at 9:30 by the appearance of a fiery cross on Fawcett's mountain, back of the town. The cross was identical to the ones burned all through the state over the week end. It was 20 by 8 feet. The fire was extinguished by the police.

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES INC. EXPANDING

Lowell Goodwill Industries, incorporated, is expanding with the times. On Friday morning next, the well known social service organization that has been serving the needs of impoverished, lonely, women and children in rather inadequate workrooms and restricted sales quarters at No. 62 Brookings street, will open a new and large headquarters at No. 98 Paige street.

The new Goodwill industrial department occupies one large room, taking up the entire old factory of the former Central M. E. church.

Members of the local Greek-speaking colony who are not affiliated with the present Greek Holy Trinity church organization on Jefferson street have leased the upper floor of the former Methodist church, and yesterday conducted their first service there. The lease will run for one year, and in the meantime, the parishioners plan to secure a more desirable location for the erection of a church building for their religious organization, which has no relation to the present Greek church society on Jefferson street.

The new Goodwill branch sales store has an area of about 800 square feet. It is being modernized thoroughly and the cost will not be small. There are two large bay windows very tall, and side bay windows in the entranceway. Golden letters on the window panes bear the words: "Goodwill Store." Placards behind the window panes read as follows:

"The Goodwill Store will open here soon enlarged quarters, with all kinds of clothing, furniture and household goods. Now at 63 Brookings street."

Rev. Alan B. Rockes, pastor of the Church of All Nations and superintendent of Lowell Goodwill Industries, announced today that the formal opening of the new store, scheduled for April 21, was deferred until next Friday because of unfinished renovations. The present quarters on Brookings street will not be discontinued, neither will the main offices of the corporation be transferred. The new store is to provide better displays of goods distributed and also give an opportunity for the establishment of another workroom in a section of the Brookings street building, which has long been desired.

About 10 new employees will be needed when the Paige street salesroom is opened. Plans are now being made to have a formal reception to which the public will be invited.

The workrooms, to be enlarged right away, will offer better opportunities for the repairing and cleaning of garments, Mr. Rockes said today. A modest man in unfortunate circumstances may today be lited out so as to walk the streets and go about his daily routines for less than five dollars. A woman may be equipped with proper clothing for public appearance, also, for about five dollars. It is the hope of the active management of the Goodwill Industries that this work of providing the common necessities of life to the people of Lowell and vicinity at modest prices, will be greatly extended and enlarged in the years to come as a result of the addition of a main sales department in the adjoining Paige street quarters that now flourish.

The new department will be open from 8:30 to 5:30 p. m. on week days, except Saturday, when the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Directors of the Goodwill Industries have started an energetic campaign to raise money to pay the expense incurred by the Paige street store's extension. One hundred Lowell business men have been interviewed in the campaign and pledges are coming in now, each check bringing $25. It is a campaign that was started quietly and without public notice in advance.

AS TO PRISON REFORM

Prison reform is favored in every state of the American Union, but yet little progress is made in the treatment of prisoners with a view to breaking them of their evil habits and giving them a healthy respect for the law. There is of late far too much talk of curing all their criminal habits by medical or psychiatric treatment. The best results are attained when prisoners are dealt with as human beings rather than dogs, when their individual tendencies are treated in a psychological way even as the school teacher treats a child in order to get the best educational results. An Illinois publication discussing the causes of crime says:

"Out of a thousand inmates questioned here last summer 71.3 per cent. had never been in prison, 61.4 per cent. came from broken homes, and 50.1 per cent. attributed their downfall to bad companions and poor morals; 76.4 per cent. did not receive religious instruction for a year or more prior to their arrest, and 65.3 per cent. had quit church. Home life was broken by the death or divorce of parents and protracted absence in 5.4 per cent. of the thousand cases. Ten per cent. of the inmates were broken by separation or divorce, and 51.8 per cent. by the death of one or both parents. Mothers of inmates were dead in 14.6 per cent. of the cases and the father in 26.1 per cent. Both were dead in 11.1 per cent. of the cases, and 25.6 per cent. of the inmates were not living with their parents."

Too many reformers class all prisoners alike, but they are as different as any other equal number of human beings who can be collected together. The opinion that criminals are in prison because they are abnormal or mentally defective is not correct as applied to the vast bulk of prisoners. There are such, of course, but it is wrong to look upon all or any large proportion of them as morose, irresponsible, paranoiacs, kleptomaniacs, drug addicts or drunkards.

There are habitual criminals, professional crooks and highwaymen who have taken up that business in order to avoid honest labor.

Can there be any common treatment that will be equally applicable to all? None except to treat them symptomatically as human beings and in a spirit of pity rather than revenge.

As the quotation above shows, many of them were neglected through irresponsible parents, broken homes, bad example, overpowering temptation, lack of religious instruction that would enlighten them as to the difference between right and wrong, give them a sense of duty and responsibility, together with a conscience, that inward monitor that protests against wrongdoing and grants peace of mind only when the laws of God, of justice and humanity are observed.

The prisons are filled with moral wrecks, men who have yielded to temptation because they were not sufficiently steered against the wrong and the moral dangers that drag men down and make them social outcasts.

For these human derelicts, all true reformative methods should be used to break them of their bad habits, give them self-respect, a sense of religious duty and a higher educational outlook, so that they will seem to return to the criminal habits that brought them down to disgrace and degradation. There is scarcely any man so low and indurated in crime, that there is not some spark of manhood and of character left in him. That is to be cultivated and increased so that self-control, self-respect and self-reliance may be established as among the foremost steps to real reform.

But the danger to be guarded against above all is, that prisoners convicted of one crime shall not be turned out as a result of evil associations, for the commission of many. Too many of our prisons are schools of crime.

In this country we seem to have little success in the reformation of criminals. Just as we have notoriously poor success in the capture and conviction of bandits, highway robbers and gunmen who shoot down anybody who attempts to thwart their criminal designs.

This question of prison reform is a big one, and it is not to be solved by any special nostrum, such as classification and psychiatric treatment. Industrial training, education, religion and diversion from evil associates, are among some of the remedies which if skillfully applied would attain the most gratifying results.

EXPANDING TRUCK SERVICE

Railroad corporations in many parts of the United States, have been expanding their motor truck transportation service quite rapidly. Five "truck lines" have now been established in the New York Central lines in western New York. Motor vehicles now carry less-than-carload freight, formerly handled by pebble freight trains, as they have been turned by officials at the railroads. Motor trucks now handle vast quantities of freight connected with railroad distribution systems, even replacing unprofitable local freight trains in the metropolitan area of New York.

It is expected that New England railroad lines will take up the motor truck auxiliary service soon. There is a demand for it in many large communities, particularly in Greater Boston freight transfer districts, in Springfield and, presumably also in Lowell.

In some states, certain private motor trucking opposition to the plan, claiming that the railroads should let the work of automobile trucks out to private individuals and not compete with them. They claim that powerful competition by railroad interests using highways outside of the ordinary regulation rail lines and connections, would be unfair competition and perhaps illegal. It may interest motor truck owners to know that the New York Central present campaign to distribute freight consignments in near-at-hand destination districts from a central receiving point, does not involve the corporation owning motor conveyances and operating them in competition with private trucking interests. On the contrary, we are informed that no motor transport trucks are owned by the New York Central, but contracts are made with large motor truck haulage companies instead.

middle west and south are adopting a similar policy of live and let live in the progressive mode of distributing the merchandise of the world today.

DRUG ADDICTS INCREASING

Government authorities and prison officials, having to do with the enforcement of the narcotic laws, give out statistics indicating a great increase in the number of drug addicts, supposed to result from prohibition, on the ground that those who cannot get drunk, try to get the drugs.

Richard P. Hobson, president of the International Narcotic Education association, says: "It is estimated that more than nine-tenths of all murderers, hold-ups, and daring robberies, are committed by drug addicts. At least one and a quarter million Americans, he says, are victims of the drug habit, and one-fourth of them are not usefully employed." Captain Hobson asserts that the drug habit is making the greatest inroads among the youth of America. "The youth," he says, "will become an addict in ten days, whereas adults usually take three times as long." The Harrison act provides penalties for the dope peddlers convicted under the law. It is evident, however, that there is as much difficulty in enforcing this law and perhaps even more, than in enforcing the prohibition law. Capt. Hobson favors the instruction of youth against the dangers of drugs, claiming that if children are made aware of the dangers, the agencies and despair that drugs bring on, they will not be so easily led into the habit. The first step, however, is to banish the dope peddlers and put them in prison, where they will meet many of their victims. Between the use of these deadly drugs and poisonous moonshine, the country is certainly in a bad way at the present time, and in spite of all the money expended for the enforcement of the law, the progress made in that direction seems to be unsatisfactory.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin announces that an increase of more than 100,000 automobiles has taken place thus far this season, for the first quarter of the year ending with March 31. These figures show that the registrations for January, February and March, of cars and trucks, totaled 403,223, which is 104,915 more than in the first three months of last year. This increase figures about 35 per cent and is the heaviest that has ever been recorded in this state.

The 1924 quarterly summary shows that trucks have gained in number of registrations more than 17 per cent—the actual increase being 10,416. This is further proof that motor truck transportation is becoming steadily more popular for "short-hauling" and also for long-distance hauling, although the increase comes in the districts where short-hauls from railroad freight distribution centers are steadily increasing in volume.

HUGHES TO BLAME

Secretary Hughes erred diplomatically when he submitted the offensive letter of the Japanese ambassador to the senate. He might have known that it would cause a rumpus. It is now predicted that the president will neither sign nor veto the immigration bill, but will allow it to become law automatically. Thus the exclusion of Japanese will be decreed.

It will lead to trouble, of course, with these hot-headed and belligerent orientals, and it will be a sort of asset to reunite the republican party now split to fragments. The whole trouble has arisen from a matter having been brought before the senate that was not intended for it.

MUNICIPAL SPENDERS

Cities have embarked on another big spending jag. More municipal bond issues were authorized and sold during March than in any month since 1915. The total was over $3 million dollars. Municipalities in our country are mortgaging the future, by new bonds, at the rate of more than a billion dollars a year. While a lot of this spending is for permanent public improvements, the expenditure is far beyond what can be afforded. It is like a man constantly spending more than he makes, and increasingly going into debt to pay the difference. Lowell is not one of the cities listed in the extravagance role.

BUSINESS

The business outlook continues good. Steel output production set a new high record in March. "So goes steel, so goes general business."

Another metal, copper, also smashed all records in March. This is important economic news, for the copper industry was exceptionally hard hit during the last depression and remained so after most other commodities began to show real life and activity.

Lawrence and her police force are concerned with the number of cats that have become public nuisances in the town of Methuen. Apparently such resorts are being made the rendezvous of bootleggers and disorderly drinking parties—a bad state of affairs in the vicinity of any city.

And now the house which President Coolidge and he would not allow, is given the right of way in the senate. The question is, will the president sign the bill when it reaches him, or will he allow the measure to be passed over his veto?

Poor Apple Picker

"Want a man to pick apples?" The farmer gave him a job. But the new helper heaped good fruit, had fruit and indifferent fruit together indiscriminately. So after he had emptied a basket or two, the farmer asked in some disgust: "Did you ever try to pick anything before?" "Race horses."

Making Him Happy

"What have you there?" asked the proprietor of a fashionable mountain hotel. "Another letter from that chump who has been writing up for rates all summer." "Well, let's see if we can't make him happy. Offer him our best suite for ten a week." "But—" "And add a postscript that the hotel is closed."

Seriousness of Wits

Quarreling Neighbors

Mrs. Ginger was always quarreling with her next-door neighbor. Unfortunately, the two ladies could never settle themselves to really witty remarks for many minutes together, and they always descended to personalities. Wednesday morning, their washing over for the week, they foregathered in their respective back gardens for their usual "friendly" chat. "I hear you've been talking about me to Mrs. Jinks," said the neighbor spitefully. Mrs. Ginger's face assumed a hue that was not far from her name. "O, indeed," she retorted. "Faults I may have, but at least I am not two-faced." "No, dear, I can see that," replied her neighbor sweetly. "If you were, you would not come out in the garden with the one you are wearing, would you?"

In many a crowded city where moves the human tide, Eyes look wistfully long, proceeding To some old countryside. Hearts that have long been sated With earth recall the charm Of not too fresh morning splendor In childhood on the farm.

From many a path of glory And many a throne of power, It is still recalled the wonder Of some dawn, distant hour. Men look through years of toiling, Of sorrow, strife and harm, And treasure unforgetten The childhood on the farm.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The position of starter in the smoko is one that calls for a man who understands thoroughly the operation of electric cars, the time schedules of operation, and is also able to act as a buffer between the company and its patrons. In "Danilo" O'Hara, starter on the night shift, the local division has a man who is rapidly gaining the popularity that is necessary on the job. "Danilo" has quite a name in the square and he has a winning smile that smooths even the roughest paths when patrons go to him with complaints regarding the service.

Officers John Stanley and John Kelly, on the day shift in Centralville, have a new car on their shoulders that requires considerable waterflogging. Central bridge. Recently it has been a minor daily occurrence for some part of the cement flooring of the bridge roadway to drop into the river and leave a gaping hole large enough to accommodate the wheel of an auto or the leg of a horse. As guardians of the peace and safety of the people the two police officers are ever on the watch for breaks in the bridge, and I have yet to see a time when such a break occurred that one of these two officers was not among the first to reach the scene and warn users of the bridge of the danger.

It was my pleasure to receive through the mails Friday a small bunch of "Danilo" flowers. I had seen this spring. The flowers were picked by Danilo and the donor, in a letter which accompanied the flowers, added the information that they were very scarce in that town.

Miss Lillie S. Cutler, clerk of the local police department, has charge of the book containing records of such deaths, suicides and other unusual happenings. The latter book has been known for years as the "Daily Happenings" book but recently Miss Cutler, in a letter, changed the title to "Deaths and Suicides," which she believes to be more appropriate.

The corn crop now is imperiled by the "borer" insect, just as cotton by the boll weevil. The corn borer came from Europe. It was discovered first in our country in 1917 among broom corn of eastern Massachusetts. At first it was supposed to be a pest of broom corn, but it is now found on all sorts of corn. The borer is moving westward into the big corn belt at the rate of 100 miles a year. It is said to be the most difficult of plant life pests to combat. A titanic struggle between man and insect life is being waged. So far, insects have not become as great a menace as disease bacteria—plant life, counts of thousands.

Large Congregations Enjoy Impressive Services Mark Festival—Easter Sermons Closing of Lenten Season—Beautiful Decorations—Special Music

With services perfectly in tune with the joyous message of Easter, the Protestant churches of Lowell yesterday observed the anniversary of Christ's glorious resurrection and triumph over death.

For him there was no death and time has no power to weave for such the garment of forgetfulness.

So it was yesterday when every house of worship was literally filled to the doors with churchgoers eager to have a part in the Easter festival. Church schools in many places gave pageants and appropriate programs at the evening service hour and beautiful decorations of spring flowers, with lilies predominating, added color to all the services.

In every church, pastors took the Easter message as their sermon theme and although treatments of the story varied in individual instances, the principal thought was the Savior's crucifixion upon Calvary and his subsequent resurrection on Easter morning to become the ever-living Christ.

Three services were held at St. Anne's Episcopal church, at 7:30, 9 and 10:45 a.m., with a sermon by the rector, Rev. Appleton Grantham at the final one. There also was holy communion. An elaborate musical program was given by a vocal choir of 100 voices under the direction of Organist William C. Heller. In the evening, the church school gave its Easter carol service. Several hundred persons were turned away from the morning service at 10:45 o'clock and others, although inside the edifice, were obliged to stand.

Another overflow congregation was seen at St. John's Episcopal church at 10:45 a.m. The other morning service of communion was at 7 o'clock. Rev. Henry Quimby had charge of the services and a fine musical program was given by the choir under the direction of Frank W. Davis, choirmaster, and Wallace Morgan, organist. An orchestra assisted.

Rev. Edward Babcock, D.D., preached the Easter sermon at the First Baptist church and the morning and evening services were especially well attended. The special choir music was given under the direction of Warren T. Reid, with Miss Clara Fenton as organist. Pageants and special Easter programs were features of the services at the Calvary, Chelmsford Street, Central and Fifth Street Baptist churches.

Beautiful decorations were in evidence at the Eliot Union Congregational church and the day's services were largely attended. The pastor, Rev. William B. Tait, D.D., preached in the morning on the topic, "The Prophecy of the Christian Ideal." In the evening, members of the church school presented the pageant "Easter and the Forty Days."

Impressive and dignified was the morning service at All Souls church and the beauty of the edifice was enhanced by effective floral decorations. The Easter sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. Arthur C. McGiffert, Jr.

At the First Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Percy E. Thomas, preached at the morning service upon "The Value of Relief in Immortality" and in the evening his topic was "The Question of a Soul?" In addition to splendid singing by the church choir, there was special music by Miss Louise Melvin, harpist, of Boston.

The choir of the First Universalist church was augmented for Easter Sunday and also for the assistance of the orchestra. The music was under the direction of Harry C. Needham, with George R. Smith as organist. The sermon was preached by the new pastor, Rev. Harold W. Haynes. At the Grace Universalist church Rev. Isaac Smith preached on "Spiritual Immortality."

A cantata, "The Easter King," was given by the choir and members of the Sunday school at the First Presbyterian church at the evening service hour. An overflow congregation heard the sermon at the morning service by the pastor, Rev. L. E. Shields.

At St. Paul's M.E. church, the pastor, Rev. C. S. Otto, preached both morning and evening and at the latter service the Weber male quartet of Boston assisted the regular church choir in a special program of music.

The Highland Union M.E. church was filled Sunday evening for the pageant "The Dawning" and the same Easter story was given by members of the church school at the Centralville church. The Radio quartet of Boston, assisted at the evening service at the church of All Nations in Worthen street.

"The King Triumphant" was the cantata given at the Matthews Memorial church Sunday evening and the P.M. church Sunday evening and there also was special music at the morning service at which the pastor, Rev. John T. Thom, preached.

EASTER SERVICES AT ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Easter Sunday services at All Saints' church, Chelmsford Centre, were largely attended. Churchgoers eager to take part in the anniversary in spirit with the seasonal programs of joy and tribute.

Beautiful decorations enhanced the appearance of the church interior. The church was adorned with white silk, broad and narrow flowers, cut flowers and other white flowers. The flowers placed on the rear screen, presented a picturesque and charming sight. Two tall Easter lilies stood on the altar steps.

The service was sung by a choir of 15 voices, with Mr. Wood at the organ. Rev. Wilson Waters delivered a very appropriate Easter sermon, taking for his text the subject, "If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?"

—HELEN FAY

Reef fat, clarified, is a good substitute for butter in shortening biscuits and gingerbread.

The penitential season of Lent was brought to an impressive close in Catholic church circles yesterday when the angelic utterance, "He is risen; He is not here," proclaimed the glorious occasion of Easter-day, or the feast of the miraculous resurrection of Christ after His three-day entombment near the scene of His Good Friday crucifixion on Mount Calvary nearly 2000 years ago.

It was a day of religious rejoicing, made all the more impressive after a 10-day period of fast, abstinence and self-denial. Solemn high masses were sung in all the churches with the rendering of elaborate musical programs. Altars were artistically decorated with fragrant and immaculate white lilies, potted palms and flowers, and myriad candles burned during the inspiring services.

"Peace be to you," was the keynote of the day's sermons.

The 6 and 7 o'clock masses in St. Patrick's church yesterday were celebrated by Rev. James A. Supple, D.D. The 8:30 and 9:30 o'clock masses were celebrated by Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, while the celebrant of the high mass was Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L., pastor. An eloquent Easter sermon was delivered by Rev. Thomas J. McDonough. Music, appropriate to the occasion, was rendered by the church and sanctuary choirs.

The boys of the parish will go to confession next Friday afternoon. Friday evening, Holy hour services will be held. A regular meeting of the Married Ladies' sodality will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

An inspiring Easter message was delivered to the parishioners of the immaculate Conception church at the 11 o'clock mass yesterday by Very Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O.M.I., Oblate provincial. The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. John C. Duffy, O.M.I., with Rev. Martin Norton, O.M.I., as deacon, and Rev. W. A. Robbins, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. Elaborate musical programs, under the direction of James S. King and Mrs. Hugh Walker, were rendered during the mass and at the solemn vespers service in the evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The solemn high mass in St. Peter's church was celebrated by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, assisted by Rev. Francis L. Shea as deacon, and Rev. John M. McEwen as sub-deacon. A beautiful Easter sermon was preached by Very Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Th. D., pastor. The music was singularly impressive.

At the 5:30 o'clock mass in St. Peter's church yesterday, the boys of the parish received communion in a body.

The annual mission will open next Sunday with members of the parish in order to charge. The Married Ladies' sodality will meet Wednesday evening, and the Propagation of the Faith society, Thursday evening.

A choir of 80 voices under the direction of Organist Raymond Kelley gave an elaborate musical program in connection with the services at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. From church rail to the altar, the sanctuary was a mass of Easter lilies and flowers, presenting a most inspiring setting for the great feast-day observance. The soloists of the day were John McMahon, Raymond Kelley, James Cusick, Mrs. Stephen Garrity, Mrs. Russell Gode, Veronica Barr and Irene Hawkins. The gospel story of the resurrection was expounded by a vested choir of boys at the 8:30 and high masses.

"I am the resurrection and the life," was the text of the sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O.M.I. The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. William J. Kilwin, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Charles Barry, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. Gerald Kennealy, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. A capacity congregation attended vespers service in the evening.

An artistic arrangement of floral designs adorned the main altar of St. Michael's church yesterday. The solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Alois G. Madden, with Rev. James P. Lynch as deacon and Rev. Thomas J. Heagerty as sub-deacon. The pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw, was seated in the sanctuary. The church and sanctuary choirs, under the direction of Mr. James Murphy, presented beautiful musical programs at the high mass and at vespers services in the evening.

Announcement was made at all the masses yesterday that a mission for the women of the parish will begin May 11. The following week will be for the men. As for the past several years, Dominican fathers will be in charge.

The pastor, Rev. Charles J. Galligan, was the celebrant of the 7 o'clock mass in St. Margaret's church yesterday. Rev. Andrew P. O'Brien celebrated the children's mass at 8:30 o'clock, and also the 9:45 o'clock mass. The high mass at 11 o'clock was sung by Rev. William P. Brennan. A special Easter musical program was rendered by the church choir at evening vespers services.

In St. Columba's church yesterday, the 7 and 8:30 o'clock masses were celebrated by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Cotter, with Rev. John J. Powers as deacon. The 10 and 11 o'clock masses were celebrated by Rev. John J. Powers. Vespers service was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"My Irish Rose," a pretty play, will be presented by young parish talent in the Academy of Music on the evenings of April 21 and 25.

An Easter procession was held in Holy Trinity (Polish) church after the 6:30 o'clock mass yesterday. The pastor, Rev. A. Ogonowski presided at benediction. The mass was celebrated by Rev. D. Dziadziak, one of the priests who conducted the recent mission. The high mass was celebrated by the pastor and Rev. Fr. Dziadziak preached. The choir rendered an impressive musical program at this mass and at vespers in the afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I., was the celebrant of the high mass at 10:30 at St. Joseph's church yesterday morning. He was assisted by Rev. J. E. Pratt, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. J. E. Emery, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. Rev. Louis A. Noll, O.M.I., delivered the sermon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Telesphore Male rendered

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more; Men were deceivers ever; One foot in sea, and one on shore, To one thing constant never: Then sigh not so, But let them go, And be you blithe and bonny; Converting all your sounds of woe Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

Sing no more ditties, sing no mo Of dumps so dull and heavy; The fraud of men was ever so, Since summer first was leavy: Then sigh not so, But let them go, And be you blithe and bonny; Converting all your sounds of woe Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

—William Shakespeare.

Nibbling

No doubt it's true that also you have lost your appetite at this or that or some other time. You find you fret o'er food you get; it doesn't look just right, and for a meal you wouldn't give a dime.

The pangs of hunger are not there when it is time to eat, and nothing seems to strike your fancy right. The people at the lunch room have a lineup that's a treat, but often times you never eat a bite.

There's pleasure, true, in dining, but the hunger must be there or else the pleasure doesn't mean a thing. You find yourself a-whining 'cause you really do not care for anything that waitresses may bring.

Well, say, that surely isn't as it really ought to be. When hunger's shy you know there's something wrong, and here's the honest answer, if you leave that point to me: you've been nibbling in between meals all day long.

LEGION POST MEETING THIS EVENING

Lowell Post No. 87, American Legion, meets tonight in the veterans' wing of Memorial Auditorium for the purpose of hearing reports of membership team captains and transacting such other business as may properly come before it. Collin C. Macdonald, post commander, will preside.

The members of the recruiting teams of the Legion are continuing their drive right up to the meeting hour tonight, the close rivalry between teams as well as the desire to do for the Legion serving in the trenches, is so confident that his team, which has been high back throughout the drive, will be at the top in the final count tonight.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH NORTH CHELMSFORD

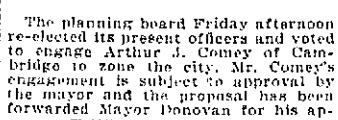

Easter's feast of joy was fittingly observed in St. John's church, North Chelmsford, yesterday, large congregations being present at all masses. The main altar was glowing with flowers and plants of the season, including jonquills, daffodils, anemones and Easter lilies. The arrangement was enhanced by the lighting of the candles for the celebration of high mass.

Rev. Fr. Linnehan was the celebrant of the 8:30 mass and delivered a discourse on "The Resurrection." Rev. John Crane, S.T.L., pastor of the parish, celebrated the high mass and preached an eloquent sermon. St. John's mass was sung by the choir under the direction of Miss Helen M. Quigley, church organist. The soloists were Edward Hines, Fred Ryan, who sang Rosewicz's "Ave Maria," and John Buckley, "O Salutaris."

The story of Master was told in beautiful language at the Memorial Auditorium Sunday afternoon at the services held under the auspices of Pilgrim Commandery, No. 5, Knights Templar. Despite a drizzling rain which did not have a tendency to send people out of doors, nearly 3000 men and women were in attendance and in every respect the services were a source of inspiration and a distinct credit to the Commandery officers who conceived them.

Pilgrim Commandery was signally and highly honored by the appearance of Most Worshipful Rev. Dudley H. Ferrell of Lynn, grand master of Masons in Massachusetts, who preached the sermon. A brilliant theologian, he also is an orator and preacher of wide renown and his treatment of the familiar Easter story based upon Christ's triumph over death made a masterful address.

The Lowell Masonic choir, under the leadership of Sir Knight Abner Edmund Brown, had a most important part in the order of service and in addition to leading in the congregational singing of such old hymns as "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "O God, Our Help," sang most effectively "The Strife is Over," by Sukter; Macdonald's arrangement of "Onward Christian Soldiers," Kremsler's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and the beautiful Beethoven number "God's Glory in Nature." In a very great degree the choir added to the deep and significant religious note sounded by the service.

The responsive reading was led by Sir Knight, Rev. Percy E. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, and he also read the Scripture lesson, gave the prayer and pronounced the benediction.

"For the Christ who died on Calvary there was no death," said Rev. Mr. Farrell, "and the passing of twenty centuries has served only to brighten the lustre of the jewels in His crown. Time has no power to weave for such as He a garment of forgetfulness and the civilization enjoyed today is the direct result of His great self-sacrifice that men might come to know God as the Father."

In language that was fraught with meaning and significance the preacher told the story of Christ's death upon the cross and the glorious resurrection and in a vivid word picture painted for the congregation the reflections of His life upon the world of today.

Pilgrim Commandery, led by Commander Frank W. Dobson, with fully 200 men in line, marched to and from the Auditorium and during the service occupied a block of chairs on the floor to the right of the stage.

LOWELL HIGH OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER TOWNSEND

Coach Liston's Team Makes Impressive Showing in Winning Over Visitors by Score of 17 to 2—Gibbons Fans 10 and Allows But One Hit in Six Innings

On a wind-swept diamond at Alumni field Saturday afternoon, Lowell high opened the local scholastic baseball season by easily defeating Townsend high by the score of 17 to 2.

It was Lowell's game from the very beginning, with every man of the team playing brightly and hitting the ball on the nose when hits meant something in the line of runs. Mayor John J. Donovan lent municipal dignity to the occasion by hurling the first ball. The leather was then turned over to Mike Gibbons, Lowell's best string pitcher, who pitched a steady game for six innings when he was relieved to give Cohen, a rookie southpaw, an opportunity to display his wares. During his play on the mound, Gibbons had the visitors eating out of his hand, and he was in his position for the opposing batsman, ten of whom went up to the plate and fanned. Only one hit was made off the Lowell boys' delivery, while the Liston-coached bunch picked three Townsend batters, Leppan, Harvey and Tasker, for 19 solid whacks, including two doubles and a triple.

Considering that it was the first game of the season, Lowell's showing was most impressive. This year's team is composed of green material, as a whole, but the new players showed up nicely and filled in their positions like veterans. Barron at first, Moynan at second, Lagrand at third, Reynolds at short, Sullivan in right field and Kosciolok in left, all performed with comparative ease at the bat and in the field.

Capt. Jimmy Daley resumed his career in baseball where he left off last year. In five trips to the plate, he connected for a brace of doubles and laid down one of the nearest bunts imaginable. He was one of Lowell's heaviest hitters, and was closely followed by "Duke" Barron, Eddie Carr, Joe Reynolds, Steve Kosciolok and Lagrand, each of whom secured three bingles apiece.

John "Nixey" Coughlin started the game as umpire, and kept the players on their toes throughout. The scoring started in the first frame, when Harvey went to first on a gift, stole second and crossed the plate on a single to right by Brown. Lowell evened matters up in the same inning. Sullivan walked and was passed. He reached second on a pretty sacrifice by Lagrand, went to third on an infield out and registered on Barron's scorching right. Gibbons connected with a single in the same inning, but died on the path when he tried to slide.

Townsend was helpless until the sixth when he scored his second and final run on Doran's single, a base on balls and two infield hits, while the local hickories continued to slam away at the offerings of the out-of-town pitchers.

The pitching performance of Gibbons was a treat to look upon. Ten strikeouts and one hit in six innings is going some. And it was a cold day.

Moynan pulled a nifty play in the third. Doran hit down the first base line. The local second sacker beat it over from second, scooped up the ball and shot it to Barron for an out. It was a fine demonstration of backing up.

Cohen has everything but control. When he masters this, he will be a hard man to beat. He looked good against Townsend.

Harvey, Townsend's all-around player, went awry. As a precaution against being hit in the eye, he wore a specially contrived mask.

"Nixey" Coughlin handled the game in his customary calm-as-you-sea-until-style.

Somerville High is the next opponent—Wednesday of this week.

Sullivan walked and was passed. He reached second on a pretty sacrifice by Lagrand, went to third on an infield out and registered on Barron's scorching right. Gibbons connected with a single in the same inning, but died on the path when he tried to slide.

Townsend was helpless until the sixth when he scored his second and final run on Doran's single, a base on balls and two infield hits, while the local hickories continued to slam away at the offerings of the out-of-town pitchers.

The pitching performance of Gibbons was a treat to look upon. Ten strikeouts and one hit in six innings is going some. And it was a cold day.

Young Reynolds, who cavorted about the short field, is a brother of Ray Reynolds, the flashy Texite shortstop. A chip off the old block, it seems.

Moynan pulled a nifty play in the third. Doran hit down the first base line. The local second sacker beat it over from second, scooped up the ball and shot it to Barron for an out. It was a fine demonstration of backing up.

Cohen has everything but control. When he masters this, he will be a hard man to beat. He looked good against Townsend.

Harvey, Townsend's all-around player, went awry. As a precaution against being hit in the eye, he wore a specially contrived mask.

All the Lowell put-outs were made by Carr and Barron with the exception of four.

Capt. Daley had but one chance in the field, a high fly off Jouffer's bat in the ninth.

"Nixey" Coughlin handled the game in his customary calm-as-you-sea-until-style.

David went to bat for Kosciolok in the sixth and came through with a sock to right that developed into a run.

Somerville High is the next opponent—Wednesday of this week.

Go get 'em, Lowell!

Consider that it was the first game of the season, Lowell's showing was most impressive. This year's team is composed of green material, as a whole, but the new players showed up nicely and filled in their positions like veterans. Barron at first, Moynan at second, Lagrand at third, Reynolds at short, Sullivan in right field and Kosciolok in left, all performed with comparative ease at the bat and in the field.

Capt. Jimmy Daley resumed his career in baseball where he left off last year. In five trips to the plate, he connected for a brace of doubles and laid down one of the nearest bunts imaginable. He was one of Lowell's heaviest hitters, and was closely followed by "Duke" Barron, Eddie Carr, Joe Reynolds, Steve Kosciolok and Lagrand, each of whom secured three bingles apiece.

John "Nixey" Coughlin started the game as umpire, and kept the players on their toes throughout. The scoring started in the first frame, when Harvey went to first on a gift, stole second and crossed the plate on a single to right by Brown. Lowell evened matters up in the same inning. Sullivan walked and was passed. He reached second on a pretty sacrifice by Lagrand, went to third on an infield out and registered on Barron's scorching right. Gibbons connected with a single in the same inning, but died on the path when he tried to slide.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The home runs played a big part in Sunday's major league games. In the American League, Chicago led off with a home run in the first inning, and Detroit followed with one in the second. Boston hit three home runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings. Washington hit two in the sixth and seventh. Philadelphia hit one in the eighth. New York hit one in the ninth. St. Louis hit one in the tenth.

In the National League, New York led off with a home run in the first inning, and Chicago followed with one in the second. Cincinnati hit two in the third, fourth and fifth innings. Pittsburgh hit one in the sixth. St. Louis hit one in the seventh. Boston hit one in the eighth. Philadelphia hit one in the ninth.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Rube Ruth officially opened the home run season in the major leagues by dropping a ball over the garden wall at Washington yesterday. Cy Williams immediately lifted one skyward at Brooklyn, and the home run makers who tied at 41 last season were off on even terms.

Ruth's blow, made off Walter John, sent the cheering crowd into a frenzy of excitement. In the sixth frame, Cy's swing proved to be the winning run in Philadelphia's 4 to 1 victory over Brooklyn in a game reduced to six innings by rain.

Of the three other homers, made yesterday, two were decisive. Helene Groh pounded a bouncer from behind the plate to the second base at the Polo Grounds and scored Southworth ahead of him with the runs that earned a 2 to 1 victory over Boston. After the game, Groh was congratulated by the Braves' only marker, Walter Huntzinger, former University of Pennsylvania star, who said that he was proud to have Groh play for the Braves.

Shelby's clutch swing featured handily in the 5 to 4 victory, which the White Sox won from Cleveland before 22,000 persons at Chicago. Tris Speaker was guilty of a headlong head-on collision with the pitcher in the eighth inning during which the Sox made four runs and finally won by a squeak.

Granham, Cub second baseman, added a four base walkup to a double and triple his powerful swinging did not prevent Cincinnati from beating Chicago, 5 to 4. Lou Gehrig, who was put out of the game for debating with the umpire.

Pittsburgh played another close contest with the Cardinals in a 3 to 2 victory. The Pirates' only marker, Walter Huntzinger, former University of Pennsylvania star, who said that he was proud to have Groh play for the Braves.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Acra Juniors would like to play any team at the age of 7 to 12 years old and would like to hear from the Acra A.A. Juniors for a 25c ball. If this challenge is accepted, call 2254-W, between the hours of 6 and 8 and ask for John.

The Acra Juniors won a forfeited game with the Universal Midwinters Wednesday night. The Acra Juniors, coached by J. J. Donlan, second base, J. J. Donlan, S. Ston, Cassidy, third base, E. Connor, first base, Haddock, right field, T. Trough, center field.

The Majors have picked up their team for the season and are looking for games with any 12-14 year old team of the city. The team consists of the following: G. Ingle, E. Judge, L. Sullivan, G. Kelly, F. Tiche, J. Tiche, J. Clancy, F. Carly, R. Judge, J. Carrigan, E. Kelly, Midget Sullivan, mascot. For games call 2265-W and ask for George.

The Liberty defeated the Scotchtown Juniors last Friday by a 17 to 4 score. The winning lineup was: W. J. Thomas, p. Mellen, 1b. Zalt, 2b. Drew, 3b. Littlefield, ss. Young, Jr. Jordan, and Anderson, cf. Durdale, rf. The Liberty would like to play any 14-15 year old team of the city. If preferred, answer through this paper.

The Cardinals accept the challenge of the Buffaloes for a return game on June 1, for a purse of $10. Tomorrow, the Cardinals will play the Buffaloes and will cross bats with the Wamets' Sunday. The following players will participate: Revis, Adams, Dugas, Murphy, Saleen, Skarke, Sharkey, Marzetti, brothers and Mercer, Conway and Red Sandor have signed up as pitchers.

DAVENEY TEAM WANTS GAMES

Sporting Editor, Lowell Sun:

Dear Sir:

The Daveneys (Celtics), a fast amateur team with ages varying from 15 to 25, would like to arrange baseball games with teams of equal calibre within the district that your worthy paper covers.

We are well informed and equipped, last year being our first in the field, and although we played only a short season our record was such that we are in the position of being able to play on the season. We are the first to defeat the Derby A. C. of Salem on their own grounds in two years and were in the season we had them in Daveneys. We defeated the Wile Handington team, Colored Mohicans of Boston and held the Havana Giants from Havana, Cuba, to a 3-0 score.

If you would be kind enough to insert this it would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,
GARDNER W. DAVENEY,
19 Berry Street, Danvers.

PRIZE WINNERS IN BOWLING SPECIALS

The prize winners in the bowling specials at the Crescent Alley last week were announced today. On Monday McQuade carried off the honors in the head pin game. He rolled 61, 61 and 59 for a total of 181. On Tuesday in the one-two, three game league was high man with 62, 58 and 115 for a total of 235. Louke came back Wednesday and topped the prize in the nine pin game, with strings of 82, 82 and 82 for a total of 246. On Thursday Bill Mulligan showed the way in the one ball game with strings of 68, 70 and 73 for a total of 211. Louke was high in the one ball game on Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday and Saturday he followed up his good work by leading in the one ball game. Friday he rolled 68, 70 and 73 for a total of 211. On Saturday he rolled 68, 70 and 73 for a total of 211.

The winner each day is allowed to select any five dollar article in the Dickerman and McQuade store. A two-day winner may take a ten dollar article three days in a row. This week's specials are expected to attract a large number of competitors. There is no registration fee and the competition is open to all bowlers in the city. Today candle pins are the attraction; Tuesday, duck pins; Wednesday, two-ball game; Thursday odd ball game; Friday, even ball game and Saturday golf bowling.

JACK SHARKEY TO MEET RECORD

BOSTON, April 21.—Jack Sharkey of Roxbury, ex-heavyweight champion of the bally, and a candidate for Jack Dempsey's title, has been matched to meet Eddie Record, ex-heavyweight champion of the bally, at the Suffolk A. A. Arena, Friday, April 25, under the auspices of the Suffolk A. A.

Sharkey and Record fought the most sensational heavyweight bout ever seen in New England. The verdict awarded to Record was decidedly unpopular, and fanfare has since been waiting for the announcement that they had been made.

Sharkey, although but two months out of the bally, is the most talked of boxer in New England, and many experts feel that within a year he will be a logical opponent for Dempsey.

Sharkey is built exactly along the lines of Dempsey, and enters the ring weighing about 170 pounds. He has more speed and a better left hand than any of the challengers. He seems to have a terrific right hand punch, and lacks only experience.

15-Year-Old Maid Hopes to Equal Alexa's Feats

MARIAN BENNETT

It wasn't so very many years ago that Alexa Stirling, still wearing short skirts and with her hair in pig tails, startled the women golfers of the nation by qualifying in the national championship.

And in another year or so the Atlanta girl started on a campaign which ended until she had won three successive national titles.

Little Marian Bennett of New Britain, Conn., who has just turned 15, hopes to follow in Alexa's golf steps, and experts who have seen her play insist she has a bright future.

Marian has been playing well in the south this spring and intends to enter the bigger tournaments in the east when summer comes. She has a very compact frame and is a driver of great power.

LEONARD MAY RETURN TO DETROIT CLUB

(By N.E.A. Service)

FRESNO, Calif., April 21.—Does Dutch Leonard, famous southpaw of a few years back, intend to return to the American League?

Leonard two years ago refused to report to the Detroit Tigers because of a salary difference. The club was as stubborn about the matter as Leonard, as a result, Detroit lost a great pitcher and Leonard considerable money.

The dope is that Leonard recently applied to Commissioner Landis for reinstatement and that he has been restored to good standing again.

Detroit suffered from lack of pitching last season and finished second. Cobb is none too well satisfied with his 1924 staff, it seems.

It is well known that Manager Cobb has been in communication with Leonard several times relative to his return to the game. So it would occasion no surprise in this section if such an announcement was made shortly.

Leonard is rated as one of the game's greatest southpaws. If he is just half as good a pitcher now, as he was when in his prime, he would greatly help Detroit.

PLAN DUNDEE-WAGNER MATCH

NEW YORK, April 21.—A match between Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and Junior lightweight boxing champion, and Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia, may result from negotiations now progressing.

Accepting the challenge of Dundee that Wagner could not make the 120 pound limit, Max Baer, manager of the Philadelphia boy who is credited with a point decision over Dundee, wired that he would arrive here today to post $5000 cash with the state boxing commission to bind the weight agreement for a match with the featherweight champion.

COAST GOLFERS LOSE

The request of the Pacific coast professionals to be allowed to hold a qualifying round of their own for the national open championship this year, has been turned down. However, judging officials have taken the matter under advisement and promise favorable action for 1925.

BROTHER GETS JOB

Jimmy Johnston is no longer the manager of Johnny Dundee, featherweight champion. Jimmy turned the job over to his younger brother, Charley, after being named matchmaker for the Cromwell A.C. club. But if you don't think Jimmy is still financially interested in Johnny, you're crazy.

SPAIN'S NET STAR

Helen White and Suzanne Lenglen, to say nothing of Molla Mallory, will have to face a real tennis star from Spain in the summer Olympics in the person of Senorita de Alvaro, 18-year-old champion. The senorita recently defeated Elizabeth Ryan of California by a decisive margin.

Without trying to take anything away from Abraham Goldstein, newest star of the clock and suit trade, the truth is, he copped a cheap championship by beating Joe Lynch for the bantamweight title.

Not that Mr. Goldstein should feel the necessity of apologizing to the world, either. Most championships come and go that way. Few champions are ever cut down in their prime.

Stanley Ketchel was a notable exception, but he came back, months later, and downed his conqueror.

Lynch had been sitting on the outer rim of uselessness for eighteen months and was ready to be knocked loose from his ears by the first sturdy youngster to face him. The veteran Joe Burman would have taken him last winter if the fight had gone through, and Lynch knew it.

Wolfe had him out.

A Cleveland third-rater—Jack Wolfe will not know until he reads these lines how close he came to taking the title away from Lynch more than a year ago. Wolfe had Lynch out on his feet in the ninth round, with more than a full minute to go.

Any kind of a tap would have dropped the champion, who was completely exhausted, and once down he could not have got back on his feet.

But Wolfe suspected the Irishman was feigning distress and did not close in. The rest of the fight was a waste of time. Two months ago, Lynch was emphatically beaten at New Orleans by one of the oldest fighters in the ring, Eddie McKenna, of whom the best it may be said is that he is willing and game.

McKenna had Lynch hanging on twice and in a longer bout would have stopped him.

Lynch will occupy a unique position in ring history. There were times when he looked the part of the most remarkable bantamweight of all time and other times when his work suggested the raw novice. You could never figure him from one fight to another. This inconsistency barred him from greatness.

Lynch was a throw-back from the old hilarious days of pugilism. He never appreciated the monetary possibilities of the present-day game. A riotous time to him meant more than a shot at a rich purse. Training was irksome and out savagely into one's social obligations.

Lynch says he will try to come back as a featherweight, where it will be easy to make the poundage. Of course he will take a fling at it and he may topple a few waterlogged flounders with that good right hand of his but he will not create more than a passing flurry.

It's a long, arduous hike back to the top and Joe, with his twinkling eyes and restless feet, looks upon long, arduous hikes with lofty disdain.

He'd much rather call a taxi.

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, one of the best of the new school, is qualified for a championship test.

Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus, gave Goldstein a grueling fight some months ago in the east and on the strength of that showing is entitled to consideration.

Eddie McKenna a veteran from New Orleans, all but beat Goldstein in the title by punishing Lynch severely in the south, nearly scoring a knockout, a shot at a rich purse.

McKenna claims he "softened" Lynch up and thus made Goldstein's victory a simple matter of routine.

Running as a member of the Newark A. C., Carl Christoffersson, former Swedish champion, set a new record for the 60-yard indoor hurdles, doing the distance in 7.8 seconds. The former record was held by Fred Kelly at eight seconds flat.

LET YOUR MIND PLAY

There lived in Anytown, many, many centuries before Mr. Mann and his fellows arrived on this globe, a race of men who spent their days and their nights in forest, mountain and stream. They had to climb, swim, run, jump, etc.

Thus it is that modern man comes quite naturally by his interest in so-called "sports" contests in which strength and skill are pitted—baseball, skull racing, swimming meets, tennis, and the rest.

Yet such they are. As well as being good physical exercise, they afford the mind a chance for quick thinking, and for relaxation from business-made activities. Going the rounds of ordinary affairs our minds are likely to get lopsided, or dulled.

A good out-of-doors game is just the psychological tonic the busy man needs. Waiting is time for the fellow who can't play ball. And don't overlook dancing. It's one of the best of so-called psychological exercises.

But whatever is determined upon—GET OUT AND PLAY AT EVERY OPPORTUNITY. THE MERE DAILY DOZEN ISN'T ENOUGH. GIVE THE MIND SOMETHING WITH WHICH TO PLAY.

Miss Katherine E. Gill of 454 Chelmsford street and Charles A. Donahue of 22 Keene street, were married today at St. Peter's church by Rev. Fr. Manion. The attendants were J. Henry Gilbride and Miss Mary Fitzgerald. The newlywed couple left for a trip following the ceremony.

Mr. Donahue is a practicing attorney and his bride was for some time employed as an operator by the telephone company.

ANOTHER BRITTON

Billy Britton of Columbus, Kas., has entered the middleweight field and wants a bout with Harry Greb. Britton is a youngster. His manager claims he held Jeff Smith even and beat Tiger Flowers when he was but 17 years old. He is not related to Jack Britton, the former welter-weight king.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

If you want the final decision on any baseball dispute, write Billy Evans, N.E.A. Service, 1200 W. Third St., Cleveland.

1. If a batsman, after missing the third strike, starts for his bench before the ball has been caught, and then discovers that the ball has gotten away from the catcher, has he a right to make an attempt to reach first base, or is he out for running out of the line?

2. Explain what is meant by a force out.

3. Has the catcher the right to block off the base runner at the plate?

Answers

1. The batsman has such a right, unless in running he ran out of his base to avoid being touched. When he takes it for granted that the ball has been caught, and instead of immediately starting for the base as he should have, he simply delays his getting there, and makes the distance that much longer.

2. A force out can only be made when a base runner legally loses the right to the base he occupies by reason of the batsman becoming a base runner, and he is thereby forced to vacate.

3. Only provided he has the ball in his possession, ready to touch the runner.

FLYING SWEDEN SETS RECORD

Carl Christoffersson

Running as a member of the Newark A. C., Carl Christoffersson, former Swedish champion, set a new record for the 60-yard indoor hurdles, doing the distance in 7.8 seconds. The former record was held by Fred Kelly at eight seconds flat.

LET YOUR MIND PLAY

There lived in Anytown, many, many centuries before Mr. Mann and his fellows arrived on this globe, a race of men who spent their days and their nights in forest, mountain and stream. They had to climb, swim, run, jump, etc.

Thus it is that modern man comes quite naturally by his interest in so-called "sports" contests in which strength and skill are pitted—baseball, skull racing, swimming meets, tennis, and the rest.

Yet such they are. As well as being good physical exercise, they afford the mind a chance for quick thinking, and for relaxation from business-made activities. Going the rounds of ordinary affairs our minds are likely to get lopsided, or dulled.

A good out-of-doors game is just the psychological tonic the busy man needs. Waiting is time for the fellow who can't play ball. And don't overlook dancing. It's one of the best of so-called psychological exercises.

But whatever is determined upon—GET OUT AND PLAY AT EVERY OPPORTUNITY. THE MERE DAILY DOZEN ISN'T ENOUGH. GIVE THE MIND SOMETHING WITH WHICH TO PLAY.

Miss Katherine E. Gill of 454 Chelmsford street and Charles A. Donahue of 22 Keene street, were married today at St. Peter's church by Rev. Fr. Manion. The attendants were J. Henry Gilbride and Miss Mary Fitzgerald. The newlywed couple left for a trip following the ceremony.

Mr. Donahue is a practicing attorney and his bride was for some time employed as an operator by the telephone company.

Baseball predictions are the bunk. It was Judge Landis, not Mr. Ford, who said that.

This is the same Judge Landis who fined that fellow, thereby disclosing an unsuspected sense of humor.

of the cash bonus gave notice in the senate today that although they would not press for inclusion of a cash option in the pending insurance bill, they would seek to amend the measure when it becomes a law.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, author of the substitute bill proposing cash and insurance as suggested by democrats of the finance committee denounced the committee bill as "disappointing, unsatisfactory and bad in form and principle."

Democrats would not press for the substitute at this time, he said, because republican leaders had declared it "it were adopted, it would vote to sustain the pending insurance bill, they would

HIT MAN TWICE ON HEAD WITH HAMMER

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., April 21.—(P)
The municipal court this morning.

Joseph Lewis, who struck Charles Miner, prominent real estate owner, twice on the head with a hammer after lying in wait for him in his home. Miner's bodyguard, pleader J. H. T. Tamm, was injured in the assault, with internal bleeding and probable fracture of the skull. Carpenter and Lewis were sentenced to serve not less than five years nor more than six years in the state prisons at Wdudor. Lewis, who is 38 years old, and a machinist by trade, gave as his reason for the assault, that he intended to buy an automobile coupe and needed money. Mr. Miner had $200 in his pockets.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 21

Jack immediately stuck out his hand and the glove took hold of it. After a hearty shake the glove released its hold and swung out of Jack's way. As Jack started on he heard Flip bark and, looking back, he saw that another glove was patting Flip on the back and rubbing his nose.

"It won't hurt you," said the little adventurer. And then the rubber glove tickled Flip in the side and the dog jumped out of the way in a hurry. Jack then continued on his way. After a short time he heard the tube faintly say, "I'm getting flat."

Jack glanced down at the tube and, sure enough, almost all of the air had leaked out. Jack immediately put the valve into his mouth and started to blow. The tube filled up slowly but when Jack quit blowing it would go right down again. "There's a leak in me," said the tube. (Continued.)

To the Honorable the Judges of the Probate Court within and for the County of Middlesex:
Respectfully, Hubla and represents Dorothy D. Jenkins, of Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, that she was lawfully married to Frank H. Jenkins, now of Nashua, New Hampshire, a Lowell, on the twenty-first day of November, A.D. 1914, and thereafter your libellant and the said Frank H. Jenkins lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit: at Lowell, and Tynchboro, your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said Frank H. Jenkins, being wholly regardless of the same, at Tynchboro, on about the first day of May, 1923, being of sufficient ability so to do, grossly, wantonly and cruelly refused and neglected to provide suitable maintenance and support for your libellant, and still refuses and neglects to provide for your libellant.
Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bond of matrimony between your libellant and the said Frank H. Jenkins be decreed.
Dated this first day of April, A.D. 1924.
DOROTHY D. JENKINS.

Hon. George Henri Boivin,
B. A., Guest and Speaker at K. of C. Luncheon

Members of Lowell council 72, Knights of Columbus, will tonight entertain a distinguished visitor in the person of Honorable George Henri Boivin, B. A., of Granby, Que., who will be the principal speaker at a luncheon and entertainment in the council rooms, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Born in Sheffield county, Que., December 24, 1862, of Irish-Canadian parentage, Mr. Boivin attended schools in Granby and received the B. A. degree from Monmouth college, Marquette, and the law from the University of Ottawa in 1902. He entered the legal profession and was admitted to the bar of Quebec in 1907. In October of that year, he was made crown prosecutor in the district of Bedford and was bailiiff of the present year.

In 1911, Mr. Boivin was elected to the house of commons, representing Bedford in the liberal interests. In 1918, he was elected deputy speaker of the house of commons.

Besides his political affiliations, Mr. Boivin is a supreme director of the Knights of Columbus and a knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory. He is married and has two sons and one daughter.

In his talk here this evening, the guest will take as his subject: "International Goodwill." An elaborate program has been prepared by the following committee: Grand Knight, Frank A. Groves, Lecturer, Edward P. Stacey, Jr., Fred Lamoureux, Joseph Desrosiers and Frank Ricard. The visitor was expected to arrive in this city this afternoon and be taken on an automobile tour by the reception committee.

The affair will be open to council members only. In anticipation of a capacity audience, extra seats will be placed in the assembly hall.

JOSEPH JARRETT'S FINES TOTAL $175

Joseph A. Jarrett who was brought back to this city from New York about a week ago on four complaints dating back to August, 1922, was fined a total of $175 in district court this morning. This amount represents $100 for operating an automobile in New York while he was under the influence of liquor in 1922, $50 for going away without making himself known after causing injury to property, and $25 for driving in a manner to endanger the lives and safety of the public. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file.

Fifteen aged men, shoulders bent under the weight of years and eyes slightly dimmed, gathered Saturday forenoon in the historical room in Memorial hall and held the annual reunion of the "Old Sixth" Massachusetts regiment on the 63rd anniversary of its historic march through Baltimore.

The 15 gathered together Saturday were all who are able to get about of the 21 survivors of the regiment which made history in '61, when it was first and the first regular regiment of the northern forces to suffer casualties in the Civil war. Every one of the 15 gathered together Saturday marched through Baltimore in '61, when the purpose of that city rose in rebellion and in defense formation attacked the Sixth regiment and in the fracas which followed killed Ladd and Whitney, both of Lowell, and thus inscribed their names in the record book of heroes of the nation the first men to die for the union.

Only three Lowell men are left of the several hundred who went with the sixth to the defense of Washington, namely Col. Albert Pinder, aged 83, Julius Adams, aged 81, and Capt. Geo. M. Dickerman, aged 87. Col. Pinder was the only Lowell veteran at the reunion. Although 83 years of age, he is in good physical condition and reports the only thing about him that is old is his hearing.

The reunion was marked by extreme simplicity. Capt. Alonzo E. Joy of Acton, president of the Old Sixth Association, was in the chair and the roll call was read by Secretary Capt. Josiah S. Jones of Lawrence. The routine business of the meeting was transacted and the gathering stood in silent prayer for one minute in memory of those who had gone before them to the last muster.

Following the dinner, a committee of three was named to bring in nominations for the coming year and their report, as follows, was unanimously accepted: President, Samuel C. Trull of Stoughton; vice president, Joseph M. Dyson of Worcester; secretary-treasurer, Capt. J. N. Jones of Lawrence.

In resigning as president, Capt. Joy thanked the members for the service they had rendered him in the past and asked them to co-operate to their annual with their new president and other officers. Capt. Joy has served as president for many terms and he, before the meeting, expressed the wish that someone else be named for the presidency so that he might go back to the ranks again.

President-elect Trull made a stirring speech in accepting the honor and paid high compliment, as also did Secretary Jones, to the retiring president who, he said, had the longest service of any man of the regiment living and was one of the few survivors who had been wounded during the war.

LOCAL ROTARIANS WILL GO TO WORCESTER GIVE HEARINGS

Sunny fraternal roads in the thirty-first Rotary district lead to Worcester this week. Lowell Rotary will have a representation of four prominent members, who will take important parts in the deliberations, entertainments, election of officers and 1924 program of work.

The Lowell Rotarians on the official visitation list are: President Arthur C. Spaulding, Past President Dr. Herbert E. Davis, Secretary F. Leroy Darcher and W. Blake Irvine. The president and secretary are regularly elected delegates.

A few of the many great attractions offered to the first gathering of the Rotarian clubs today for the Tuesday opening, ceremonies are: Everett W. Hill of Oklahoma City, Okla., first vice president of Rotary International; Daniel F. Sullivan, governor of the thirty-first district; Hon. Michael J. O'Hara, mayor of Worcester; Hon. Edwin O. Childs, mayor of Newton; John F. Tinsley, president of Worcester chamber of commerce; Henry S. Dennison, of Framingham; Capt. Irving O'Hay, a recent visitor to Lowell, and Dr. Thyl Hsieh, sometimes called "The Roosevelt of China."

There are to be two big Rotarian luncheons. Headquarters are at Bancroft hotel, Worcester, and business sessions will be held at the hotel and also in Mechanics and Washburn halls. Lowell Rotarians are the hosts. Lowell delegates will take part in numerous important conferences affecting Rotary, as well as participating in all the justification schedules. Tomorrow morning comes the district conference opening session, with addresses by Rotary leaders. Luncheon follows at noon and inspirational addresses are scheduled for afternoon rally, with mayors leading the list of speakers. The banquet will be held at 6:30 in Mechanics hall. From 10:05 p. m. "until morning," the program says there will be a "jubilee of melody and mirth."

Wednesday morning brings a "round table breakfast," a new program feature, when members will offer suggestions for the welfare of Rotary in general and consider informally plans for Rotary betterment works. The business session of the conference and addresses come at 2 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon. Ballot for district governor is also scheduled for Wednesday.

Lowell delegates are greatly interested in the conference on boys' work that is to be held in separate session from the main conference. Presidents and secretaries only will take part in this important discussion that is expected to reconstruct and invigorate future programs adopted for the expansion of work among youth.

FOUR INJURED BY BOMB EXPLOSION IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 21—Four persons were injured, one of them seriously and several hundred persons were thrown into a panic early today, when a bomb exploded in front of an East Side tenement. Scores of windows were shattered.

The injured persons told police they were standing in front of a small shoe shop when the blast occurred. They expressed the opinion that a bomb had been thrown at them from a window.

Searching for fragments of the bomb, policemen discovered what they said was a threatening note written in Italian on a rough piece of paper. Details of the note were withheld.
